GIVE THE FISH A SHOW

A Destructive Dam Built Across the Klamath.

A COMPLAINT FROM GEN MILES

Gov Pennoyer Presents the Matter to Gov Waterman and Asks That the Abuse Be Remedied—The Correspondence

SALEM Or Sept 23.—Governor Pennoyer received to-day the following dispatch

LINKVILLE Or Sept 21

Governor Pennoyer, Salem Or Lieutenant Alfred M Fuller, Second cavalry reports as follows The Klamath River Improvement Company have built a dam across the Klamath river at Manistee Siskiyou county Cal four miles from Ager station without providing a fishway that fifteen or twenty people are employed night and day taking large quantities of salmon and destroying thousands of others that the river is fairly polluted with dead fish all in violation of law There is much indignation among the people in this part of California and Oregon and needed measures should be taken to stop the lawless acts and to have a fishway constructed that will allow the millions of salmon to go up this important river as this is the season that they must go up to deposit their spawn A. N. MILES

Brigadier General Commanding

Upon receipt of this the governor sent the following dispatch to Governor Waterman

SALEM Or Sept 22.

Governor R W Waterman Sacramento Cal I forward you the following dispatch from Brigadier General Miles Inasmuch as the matter complained of is within the jurisdiction of California will you please take steps to correct the abuse SYLVESTER PENNOYER

Governor of Oregon

Under section 667 of the Penal Code of California the obstruction of a river as complained of strange to say is not a misdemeanor until after the fish commissioners have requested it not to be obstructed

The governor also apprised General Miles of his action

FROM SEATTLE

End of a School Book Contest—An Infant Murdered

SEATTLE, Sept 23—The suit of Ivison Blakeman & Co against County School Superintendent A Pusey to compel the introduction and use of certain text books in the public schools of this county has been dismissed on motion of the attorneys for Ivison, Blakeman & Co and at plaintiff's own cost.

It is understood there will be no further litigation in the matter The reason of the dismissal on the part of the plaintiffs is thought to be that in a few months the state board of education will be appointed, and then new arrangements will be sought to be made

AN INFANT MURDERED.

The body of a dead female infant was found this morning on the beach at the foot of Virginia street, by three little boys The body was packed in a grape box and had around it a cotton quilt The right side of the skull was crushed in and every evidence was furnished that the child had been murdered The body was not decomposed, and had not been dead more than thirty six or forty-eight hours The coroner was notified and decided not to hold an inquest.

It seems probable that the infant was sacrificed immediately after birth to hide some woman's shame and being packed in the box was cast into the harbor The police are working on the case, but so far no clues have been found.

SATISFACTORILY SETTLED

The troubles with which the Seattle Construction Company owners of the Lake Washington cable road have recently suffered were to-day ended by the purchase of the interest of E. F Wittler general manager by Fred E. Sander president and treasurer Then by agreement all pending suits were dismissed and Receiver Jackson discharged Mr Sander agrees to pay all the debts of the road and to assume all liability The line pays now and always has, and got into financial straits only through mismanagement.

A LIVELY EPISODE.

James Powell and William Hill were trying to kill a steer at Redmond yesterday and Hill fired at the animal striking him in the nose This made the steer mad and he started for Powell and Hill fired again This time he hit Powell in the leg and inflicted a serious wound The steer was successfully killed before he inflicted harm upon any one.

AN INFORMAL CHALLENGE

The Seattle hook and ladder team received word to-night from Tacoma that the team of that place wanted to make a race with the Seattle boys for $1000 a side Word was returned that if the challenge were sent in proper form it would be promptly and gladly accepted

WILSON SPEAKS AT TACOMA.

A Comparison of the Records of the Rival Parties.

TACOMA Wn Sept 23—The Alpha Opera house was filled this evening with the intelligence of Tacoma to listen to an address from John L. Wilson, republican nominee for congress. The chair was taken by Hon Elwood Evans the old republican war horse and Mr Wilson was the first speaker He briefly reviewed the great services rendered by the republican party in the United States contrasting them with the suicidal policy always pursued by the democrats He dwelt especially on the success of the financial policy pursued by the party of which he is the standard bearer showing that it could borrow $300 000 000 at 3 per cent and have the people more than eager to purchase such bonds. Three great measures have been carried through by the republican party which was the party of progress in the interests of the laboring man These were the homestead law over which they had a ten years' struggle with the democracy, and which was once defeated by the vote of Vice-President Breckenridge, and again by the veto of President Buchanan but was finally passed by a republican congress and became a law by the signature of Abraham Lincoln. The second was the abolition of slavery and the third the passage of acts creating protection for American industries and the maintenance of a tariff that has placed the American workman in circumstances of comfort never obtained by any other laborers and mechanics in the world He scathingly reviewed the statements of Mr Griffitts that the difference between them was one of schedule only and referred particularly to the propositions of the democrats as embodied in the Mills bill showing that that was designed to protect the industries of the South at the expense of those of the North

Mr Wilson was received with the greatest enthusiasm, and his speech was frequently interrupted with loud outbursts of applause He was followed by Major Dornley who devoted himself to the labor question entirely, and was well received

How He Proved His Identity to the Satisfaction of the Court.

TACOMA Sept. 23.—The attorneys of Richard Walker who claims to be the son of the late Annie Walker, and who also claims the estate left by her have succeeded in getting Judge Allyn to dissolve the injunction which he granted some time ago to restrain the county treasurer from paying out any of the moneys in his hands belonging to the estate until the claim of Mr Carr, the Portland attorney should be settled Mr Carr claimed that Richard Walker had promised to give him 40 per cent of the estate for telling him where the estate was It was this estate that he wished settled when he secured the injunction Mr Walker's attorneys did not care to go ahead with the matter and make the final proof as to Walker's identity until the injunction served on the county treasurer was dissolved Judge Allyn dissolved the injunction late last Saturday afternoon Young Walker succeeded in satisfying Probate Judge Beverly that he was the son of the late Annie Walker Considerable evidence was introduced in his behalf Dr Van Buren who attended Mrs Walker during her last illness testified that the family resemblance between Mrs Walker and the young man in court was very striking Several other witnesses who had known Mrs Walker testified to the same effect Witnesses were introduced who knew old Mr Walker They said he was Annie Walker's husband He testified that he was the young man's father and produced a marriage certificate and other papers of record Young Walker gave his history in a lucid manner his statements being fully corroborated by the statements of witnesses and other evidence

Judge Beverly had a ruse of his own At the time of the sale of Mrs Walker's personal effects an old German had bought a photograph which he knew at the time was that of Young Walker It was taken when he was but 5 or 6 years old The aged German notified Judge Beverly that the picture was in his possession and Saturday afternoon Judge Beverly asked Walker if his mother had ever had his picture taken. The claimant of the estate replied that she had and gave the court an accurate description of the picture Judge Beverly then told Walker where the picture was to be found and he went over to the German citizen's house and got it Dr Van Buren remembered that he had seen the picture on a mantel in Mrs Walker's chamber and that she had told him that it was her son's picture The evidence assured Judge Beverly that the claimant was Mrs. Walker's son and he issued an order to Auditor Huggins to draw a warrant on the county treasurer for the amount of the estate in favor of Walker He will probably receive his money to-morrow He intends leaving for Sydney Australia, where his family is living, as soon as possible The amount of the estate is $3141 43.

A Kansas Mob That Ought to Be Mobbed.

A TERRIBLE WRONG COMMITTED

An Innocent Man and Woman Hanged by Crowd Until They Were Nearly Dead—A False Confession Extorted

KANSAS CITY Sept 23.—A special dispatch to the Times from Eldorado Kansas tells of the mob trial under lynch law of Edwards and his wife at Rosalia for the murder of Henry Boomer's [illegible] detailed in these dispatches Saturday [illegible] the most revolting character and reveal of inhuman treatment seldom met with [illegible] the border

The child it appears was left in the care of [illegible] and Mrs. Edwards while Boomer [illegible] went to work in the fields. Last [illegible] evening the child was missing and the neighbors Wednesday and Thursday [illegible] revealing no trace of its whereabouts.

Mr and Mrs Edwards were not sufficiently active in the search to satisfy the minds of the neighbors and consequently suspicion [illegible] aroused and finally a mob took charge [illegible] one portion taking Edwards and the other [illegible] wife.

Mrs Edwards is a woman of very [illegible] position and when commanded to confess the crime under penalty of hanging, she finally said that she had killed [illegible] accidentally and that the body was in the [illegible] failed to reveal it when she [illegible] taken to the nearest tree and [illegible] statements to make was pulled [illegible] kept suspended in the air until [illegible] black She was then lowered and [illegible] to the leader he told her that if [illegible] the truth she would be hanged [illegible] her husband burned at the stake She was too badly frightened to [illegible], and [illegible] her silence to be voluntary the [illegible] pended her until nearly dead After [illegible] they were about to draw her up [illegible] father of the missing child interfered, if they killed her the body of his child could be found. She was then placed in charge of guard

In the meantime that portion of the mob which had Edwards in charge attempted to [illegible] a confession from him He protested his innocence and was strung up twice until nearly dead.

Friday night the prisoners were placed in jail here. From that time until this morning [illegible] mob, varying from 500 to 1,000 has continually surrounded the jail clamoring for the lives of the accused but the sheriff kept them at bay [illegible] this morning the child was found alive [illegible] sitting on the door-step of a farmer near [illegible] where it had been all the time. It is a mystery. It is supposed that it was kidnapped and returned when it was learned what excitement its disappearance was causing Mr and Mrs Edwards have been released. They are still suffering from the effects of the harsh treatment received [illegible] an attempt will be made to prosecute the leaders of the mob

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

Denial of the Motion of Frank Woodruff for Discharge From Custody

CHICAGO, Sept 23.—The Cronin case was resumed this afternoon Judge McConnell [illegible] Frank Woodruff's motion of discharge from custody on the ground that the statutory time [illegible] which he was entitled to trial had passed [illegible] court held that the application was insufficient

During the reading of the court's decision [illegible] Woodruff case, prisoner Kunze was very much excited. Several times he tried to rise but was [illegible] back by his attorney, Forrest. When the [illegible] had concluded, he got up and in spite of [illegible] torney began to speak "I want to speak [illegible] own interest" persisted he. "Longenecker [illegible] me that I should lose nothing if I was innocent I want him to tell me for what he keeps me in jail yet."

"I am considering your matter now" said the court kindly and Kunze sat down

No additional jurors were secured to-day

SUICIDE OF A WOULD-BE MURDERER.

A Desperate Fight With the Officer Who Captured Him.

MONTAGUE, Mich Sept 23.—George Doelle went home intoxicated yesterday morning [illegible] to kill his wife She was not at home so [illegible] thought his stepdaughter, Kate Klopf would [illegible] as well He struck her twice with an ax but not seriously injured her She made her [illegible] and Marshal Clinger went to the house [illegible] found Doelle in the cellar armed with a knife The marshal's revolver was knocked [illegible] of his hand by the infuriated man and a [illegible] struggle ensued during which [illegible] stabbed in four or five places He [illegible] however, and finally downed his man [illegible] him to jail Last evening when the turnkey [illegible] in with the man's supper he was found hanging from the window bars, having committed suicide The marshal's injuries will not result seriously

HONOR AMONG THIEVES.

Confession of the Thompson's Springs Robbers to Save an Innocent Man

OGDEN Sept 23.—August 6 the west bound Denver & Rio Grande train was held up and robbed by two masked men near Thompson's Springs, Utah. The officers arrested one Curtiss and [illegible] they had conclusive evidence of his guilt. To-day two men named Joseph [illegible] and Edward Dayton were lodged in jail here charged with the recent daring robbery of a gambling house in this city Learning that Curtiss was likely to be convicted, they made a voluntary confession that they were the train robbers and declared Curtiss entirely innocent. [illegible] said they would rather suffer perpetual imprisonment than endure the consciousness that a guiltless man suffered for their misdeeds.

A MANIAC'S CRIME.

He was seized with a violent mania and drove all his family excepting his wife from the house at the point of the revolver Mrs. Kuykendall attempted to quiet him, but the maniac shot and fatally wounded her An attempt was made to capture the madman who barricaded the doors and windows and defied the crowd. ## The Ruins of Casa Grande to be Preserved.

BULLETINS ON THE WHEAT CROP

St. Louis Appeals to the South to Support Her Claim for the World's Fair—The Supreme Bench Vacancy.

WASHINGTON Sept 23.—Secretary Noble has transmitted to the director of the geological survey the report by Special Agent Morrison on the condition of the Casa Grande (great house) ruins in Pinal county Ariz., with instructions that the necessary steps be immediately taken to repair and protect the ruins under the authority granted in the act of March 2, 1889 appropriating $2,000 for that purpose.

Special Agent Morrison says that the front of the main building measures 60 feet and the width 43 feet. The height of the first story is 13 feet, the second [illegible] feet and the third and fourth stories 8 feet.

The greater part of the upper story has disappeared. The walls are between 4 and [illegible] feet thick, and the material of which they are constructed is almost indestructible, being concrete made of fine gravel and cement closely resembling the granolithic now used in Washington. Every particle of wood has been carried away by relic hunters, and the disintegration of the walls has been so rapid of late years that if measures are not immediately taken to strengthen them the entire mass will soon fall into a shapeless ruin.

Report says that for miles around the mysterious Casa Grande many great mounds now hardly distinguishable from the desert sands bear indisputable evidence of having been at some remote period the abode of busy industries. Morrison says that he is convinced the Casa Grande was not used for either religious or warlike purposes. The superiority of the architecture, it having outlived all the other structures by which it was surrounded, the numerous small apartments into which it was divided and the elegance of the interior finish all points to the conclusion that it was the palace of a king or a chief who governed the primitive Americans who inhabited these vast domains ages before the Aztecs or Toltecs.

The earliest historic record we have of the Casa Grande was given by the famous Spanish cavalier and explorer, Cabeza de Baca, who discovered it during his journey across the continent about 1537.

AN APPEAL TO THE SOUTH.

St. Louis Claims the World's Fair on Sectional Grounds

WASHINGTON Sept 23.—The Post to-day prints a confidential circular which has been issued by the world's fair committee in St. Louis and sent to members of congress and officers of commercial organizations in the Southern States. If St. Louis ever had a chance of getting the fair this circular would knock it into a cocked hat, for it is intended to excite sectional spirit by appealing to Southern prejudices against the North and East, and invoking the ghosts of the Confederacy.

The writer reminds members of congress and commercial men of the South that St. Louis has always sympathized with that section and has been more closely identified with its interests than any other section of the United States. It reminds them that if the fair is held in the North or in the East, the young people of the South who visit it will be brought under the influence of Northern spirit and become infected with Northern ideas, a danger they would not suffer if the fair were held at St. Louis.

This circular, it is said, has been sent in large numbers all over the South, and is not intended for Northern circulation.

THE WHEAT CROP.

Bulletin Notes From Counties in Oregon, Washington and California.

WASHINGTON, Sept 23.—From the crop bulletin just made public by the department of agriculture relative to the crops throughout the country, the following notes from county correspondents on the Pacific coast are taken, relative to the wheat crop:

Oregon: Lane—Got an early growth before the drouth set in. Union—Prime condition, a little light in weight. Summer fallow is very high in yield—110; spring fallow is 90 owing to the July drouth. Gilliam—Generally an entire failure. Linn—Fall wheat yielded better than was expected, yet is spotted in some sections and less than an average crop. In other localities it would market 1.5; spring wheat is 80. Yamhill—A full average.

Washington: Columbia—Not so plump as usual. San Juan—Fall wheat is a good crop, spring wheat is not a good crop.

California: Humboldt—Much injured by rust, not even fit for hay in some sections. Sutter—Fell off in ripening prematurely. Lake—Very poor; late rains and heavy dews caused rust in all late sown, the greater portion of which is not worth cutting; some of the early sowing was damaged, especially on moist land. Stanislaus—Will average fourteen bushels per acre. Marin—Small crop of fair condition.

THE SUPREME BENCH.

A Report That Secretary Noble Will Receive the Appointment.

WASHINGTON Sept. 23.—A report has been revived that Secretary Noble will be transferred to the supreme court vacancy. It is said that the change would have occurred sooner but for the controversy over Commissioner Tanner. Now that the corporal is out of the way, some of Noble's friends assert that he will be appointed to the justiceship, and that ex-Governor Foster, of Ohio, will become secretary of the interior.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

Silver and Silver Notes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—A statement prepared at the treasury department shows that there now remains in the treasury but $8,378,281 standard silver dollars that are not represented by silver certificates in circulation, out of a total coinage of standard silver dollars to date of $329,263,654. This balance is about ten million dollars less than it was a month ago, and about $85,000,000 less than it was July 31 1886. It never before has been as small as at present. Silver certificates in circulation, amounting to $274,509,763, are mostly of small denomination, and their recent heavy issue is attributed to the usual fall movement of crops.

POOR "JUDY" NEUSTADTER.

He Provides a Handsome Income for His Wife, and Leaves Her in New York

NEW YORK Sept. 23.—Henry Neustadter finally gave up the attempt to bring his errant wife back with him to his Oregon home. His infatuation for the woman has excited wonder and even admiration here. ### CALIFORNIA'S RAILROADS

Six New Companies Incorporated During the Year.

SAN FRANCISCO Sept. 23.—This year six new railroad companies will have a statement of their condition and operation in the forthcoming annual report of the state railroad commission. Notwithstanding this fact the report will only show twenty-five railroad corporations in the state against thirty-one in the last report of the commissioners. The decrease is due to the consolidations made by the Southern Pacific Company in putting into one company—the Northern Railway Company—all of its branch lines north of this city. At the same time it consolidated all of its branch lines south of this city into the Southern Pacific Railroad of California.

The new companies mentioned are in no way related to the Stanford-Huntington system and represent individual enterprise. They are immediately concerned with the development of Humboldt, Los Angeles, Colusa, Sierra, Plumas and San Diego counties. They represent an addition of 148 miles to the total mileage of California and swell the railway investments of the state by $7,866,487 in round numbers.

DEMPSEY AND LA BLANCHE.

One Thousand Dollars Deposited by the Former as a Forfeit.

SAN FRANCISCO Sept 23.—As was intimated in last night's dispatches to THE OREGONIAN, Jack Dempsey to-night placed $1000 with the Chronicle as a forfeit for a return match with La Blanche. Dempsey's friends and backers are willing that the men should meet under the same conditions that governed the late fight, and they will even consent to the men fighting at catchweights. It is understood that if the pugilists agree to another meeting the California club will give a purse sufficiently substantial for any champions to fight for. The Dempsey side say, however, that their man will fight for anything or nothing sooner than miss a chance to retrieve his laurels. They do not insist that the match shall take place immediately. All they ask is that the Marine cover Dempsey's forfeit before he leaves the city.

CONTRACTOR HUNT'S STATEMENT.

He came to this city to make some land trades.

CALIFORNIA NEWS ITEMS.

Granted a Writ of Habeas Corpus

SAN FRANCISCO Sept 23.—Adolph Ottinger, a ticket broker who was sentenced by Judge Lawler to pay a fine of $100, and in default serve 100 days in jail, for obtaining money under false pretenses, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in the supreme court to-day. The facts on which the charge was based consisted in selling a scalper's ticket from this city to Portland and refusing to return the money after the ticket had been taken up and the passenger put off the train. Ottinger alleges in his petition that there was no complaint upon which to found the judgment of conviction and that the police court in which he was tried had no jurisdiction. Chief Justice Beatty granted the writ and made it returnable before him Saturday next.

THE NEW PACIFIC STEAMER LINE.

Considerable Opposition Is Anticipated in Australia.

NEW YORK Sept. 23.—Smalley's London special says Abbott, in his mission to Australia, will not find all the colonies of the same mind about encouraging Pacific steamers. South Australia will certainly object to the line, because it would injure Adelaide and possibly Melbourne, which maintains a bitter rivalry towards Sydney, will not care to see the older capital of New South Wales profit by Abbott's proposal. Sydney may be content to sit still and see whether the United States may not offer more liberal terms than Canada, in order to maintain the present San Francisco route for its mails and commerce.

A LARGE FIRM FAILS

The Publishing House of Belford, Clarke & Co.

IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER

The Assets and the Liabilities Will Amount to About $400,000—The Causes of the Suspension

CHICAGO Sept 23.—The mammoth publishing house of Belford, Clarke & Co., which has a large establishment here and branches in New York and San Francisco, went to the wall to-day. This afternoon judgment was entered against them in the circuit court in favor of the First National bank and S. A. Maxwell. Attachments were sued out, but shortly after judgment was secured by the sheriff a receiver was appointed by Judge Shepard.

The failure is a surprise to the general public. It has been expected for some time by those familiar with the firm's standing.

Lawyer Newman, attorney for the creditors and also for the receiver, said that three things were responsible for the failure. In 1886 the entire plant was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of over $100,000. The firm promptly resumed business, but during the last two years suffered very heavily by the failure of customers. The collapse of one firm in San Francisco alone lost them about $40,000. In addition to this the competition between the Eastern and Western publishers, particularly of standard works, has been so brisk that the market has been almost wholly destroyed.

Newman said that in his opinion the assets would amount to about $400,000 and the liabilities about the same.

The principal creditors are the Crowe Printing Company, over $100,000; Donohoe & Henneberry, $175,000; The First National bank of Chicago, $50,000; S. A Maxwell $17,000. Besides there are heavy creditors in New York and San Francisco.

Another lawyer, discussing the causes of the failure, said that Andrew McNally, of Rand, McNally & Co., who is Belford's father-in-law, had been backing the firm for some time, and that his refusal to indorse the firm's paper prompted the First National bank to enter upon judgment. The attorney thought that if Mr McNally had not discontinued his support the firm might have pulled through.

T. C. Hardin, a member of the firm of Walker, Oakley & Co., leather merchants, is the receiver. His bond is $100,000.

Prior to the appointment of a receiver Donohoe & Henneberry, who are the largest creditors, filed a bill in which it was stated that the broken corporation's capital was $500,000, of which only $300,000 had been paid in. The nominal assets, according to this bill, amount to less than $200,000.

TORNADO IN FLORIDA.

A Storm of Terrific Violence Passes Over Pablo Beach

JACKSONVILLE Fla Sept 23.—A tornado of great violence passed over Pablo Beach, sixteen miles south on the Atlantic coast this evening. It arose in the southwest and without warning, except a blackening in the sky, struck Murray hall, an immense beach hotel, and twisted the tin roof from the main structure to the towers, burst in the windows and doors on the west side and left it in a generally shattered condition.

Prince O'Neil, a boy 13 years old, was standing by a horse and buggy near the dancing pavilion. The horse, vehicle and boy were lifted into the air and blown nearly 200 feet to the beach, where they were found ten minutes later all in a heap, dead. The force of the wind was such that pieces of timber were driven through the 2-inch plank flooring of the railroad station. No serious injury to persons is reported beyond the death of the O'Neil boy. The cottages on the beach escaped with slight damage. The tornado covered an area of not over seventy-five feet in its revolutions.

FIG CULTURE IN OREGON.

PORTLAND, Sept [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Attracted, while in Salem about three years ago, by the display of some very handsome, well developed and thoroughly ripe figs of a very fine white variety, I learned upon inquiry that they were produced in the home orchard of Captain L. E. Pratt of that city. I called on that gentleman and have made what I learned from him the subject of a number of communications to the local press of the Willamette valley and of this city. I wrote to him some time ago asking how his fig trees were progressing. I recently received the following reply from him:

Your communication bearing date of June [illegible] came promptly to hand, and contents noted with interest. A reply was also at the time prepared for you. When upon examining my figs so as to inform you correctly their condition, prospect and appearance, (they not yet being half grown) I was surprised to find some of them quite yellow, and one or two had fallen off. Finding them in this condition I concluded to delay my reply to you until I could give a more satisfactory and reliable report of the final result, which I now can do up to the present time. The last year's growth was from the ground twenty to twenty-four inches. On this wood the first fruit made its appearance, four to six on each stalk, and from one to three of the lowest on each stalk blighted and fell off, and the balance grew to full size and matured. I gathered the last about the 10th of this month (August). They were fine and large and delicious. One, a single one on the stalk, was as large as a goose egg. They made quite a show in Mr Martin's window. About the last of July the new growth upon the stalks that matured their fruit and all the other stalks growing commenced putting out fruit (I will say here that I did not note the time that the first fruit made its first appearance) and some of the first on this new growth are now one inch through at the largest part, and should any of these mature this season I will inform you. The stalks have grown from two to two and a half feet thus far this season. I shall protect them well for the winter and see if I can not make a still greater success and a more interesting report with all particulars another season. I am really much encouraged in the prospect of being able to raise figs successfully.

I wish to remark here that a phenomenally cold snap in the winter of 1886–87 killed the trees, they were then only from three to four inches in circumference, to the ground, but with the coming of the spring of 1887 a new growth occurred from which the results noted by Captain Pratt in the above quoted note have been obtained. In this connection let me add here that fig growers in this section will have to guard against such accidents either by the method resorted to in the latitude of Baltimore, Md., which consist in bending over the limbs and covering them with earth or mulch, or else wrapping them with coarse cloths or tarred paper. In this exceptionally favored climate, however, the contingency which results in damage need be feared but seldom.

The best epitome for fig culture which I have happened on in my search for such matters is the following:

Dr Gustave Eisen, a prominent nurseryman of Fresno, Cal., says in his report to the state horticultural society:

1 Abundance of moisture in the soil before the figs begin to ripen.

2 Good and perfect drainage at all times.

3. The gradual drying of the soil when the fruit is ripening.

4 Sufficient heat to insure sweetness in the fig.

5 Absence of any frost lower than 18 deg. Fah., though the figs can stand a temperature as low as 12 deg. Fah. if they are tolerably dormant.

6 Absence of heavy rains during the maturing of the fruit.

Again the following conditions are injurious to fig trees if the object is to procure superior fruit:

1. A wet soil with stagnant water during the fruiting season.

2 Cesspools, sewers and ditches in so close proximity that they can send roots to them.

3. Heavy rains on the fruit when it is ripening. Some of the finest varieties are then apt to crack and sour.

4 Heavy rains and dews upon the fruit exposed for drying.

5. And last a heavy, undrainable, black, adobe soil impervious to sun and air.

There can be no doubt but that nearly all if not all, the favorable conditions mentioned by Dr Eisen can be met with in many localities in the Northwest.

There is, as I have frequently remarked, really no reason why the home builder in Western Oregon, and indeed in many other localities in the Northwest, should not sit under the shade of his fig tree as well as of his vine. My Salem friend has, properly managed, the nucleus of a general distribution of fig trees throughout the North west. I am not sure that his fig is not a new and valuable variety. A white fig as large as a goose egg is to me a novelty, and I have eaten figs in Tennessee, Louisiana, California and other localities in which the fruit is at home, if not indigenous. By publishing these "few remarks" and exciting a widespread interest in the subject you will aid in adding a most delightfully palatable and wholesome fruit to the list of Oregon's productions.

BOULANGIST BALLOTS BURNED

The General's Election From Montmartre Involved in Doubt—Opinion of the European Press—The Returns

PARIS Sept 23, P M.—Returns from the general elections show 244 republicans elected and [illegible] members of the opposition. Among the republicans were sixteen moderates and seven radicals. The opposition includes eighty-six [illegible], [illegible] Bonapartists and twenty-two Boulangists. Reballots will be necessary in [illegible] divisions. It is expected that [illegible] of these will return republicans. The republicans probably also win the seats of the colonies. The new chamber will probably consist of [illegible] republicans and [illegible] opposition.

Corrected returns from Belleville show that Rochefort received a larger number of votes than any other candidate, but not a majority, and a reballot is necessary. It is understood that the opposition candidates in the reballots will vote solidly for [illegible] labor candidate.

Returns from the elections in [illegible] show that the conservatives did not elect a single member, while the republicans returned one and the Boulangists four. Reballots will be necessary in thirty-seven divisions. M [illegible], minister of [illegible], has been re-elected, but reballots will be necessary in the districts in which Constans, minister of the interior, and Yves Guyot, minister of public works, were candidates. Their election however is regarded as certain.

Along with the republicans defeated are Milude, Goblet, Jules Ferry, Milard and Joubert, while in the districts in which Millerand, Passy, Lockroy, Floquet and Baradet, republicans, and Andrieux, Laisant, Vergoin, Laur, Desvens and Dauet, anti-republicans, were candidates reballots will have to be held. Count Dillon was elected.

Among the prominent republicans elected are Fallieres, Ribot, Jules Rochefort, Gauet, Develle, Deschanel, Barbe, Sarrien and Reinach. Among the prominent opposition candidates elected are Cassagnac, Lalon, Fould, Cossman, Godelle, Lanjuinais and Mun. The conservatives elected Breteuil, Dordeauville, Seeibelsan, Ackan, Montfor and Bishop Freppel.

In official circles the government majority is considered assured, and although the majority will not be large it will be more compact and more homogeneous than that in the last chamber.

THE BOULANGISTS DOWNED

LONDON Sept 23.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says the election in France yesterday resulted in a crushing defeat to the Boulangists, who return only 21 members and whose entire representation in the new chamber after reballoting will not exceed 35. The conservatives elected 101 members and will get 30 more. The republicans returned 218 and will secure over 100 more, making their total strength between 325 and 360, against 225 or 230 representing the opposition.

The success of the republicans and defeat of the monarchists and Cæsarism is a happy fact. The result of the election puts an end to the Boulangist monarchist conspiracy.

The Boulangists claim the general is elected from Montmartre. They say the [illegible] of Boulangists in some of the polling stations was illegal.

BOULANGER TICKETS BURNED

PARIS Sept. 23.—The Boulangists polled 192,300 votes in Paris, against 244,070. Those recorded for Boulanger and Rochefort were burned. The matter will be inquired into upon the opening of the chamber of deputies. Counting destroyed voting papers the Boulangists polled 300,000 in the Seine district against their opponents 226,000, but the republicans show an increase of 97,066 compared with the vote of January.

The revisory committee will sit on Thursday next to decide whether General Boulanger shall be declared elected or whether another ballot is necessary in Montmartre.

PARIS PRESS COMMENT

PARIS Sept 23.—The Temps says that the political shades of the new chamber will be much the same as those of the old.

The Liberte says that the chamber will not undergo a change of balance of parties sufficient to have a serious influence upon the future of the republic.

The results of the elections made a favorable impression on the Bourse and prices remained firm throughout the day.

A CASE IN POINT.

In our forefathers' days pimples were attributed to diseased blood. But modern medicine has demonstrated that rich food does not create eruptions by fouling the blood, but retards digestion, which makes the stomach torpid and the circulation sluggish and in turn causes an enfeebled action of the pores which congest or become pimply. The modern theory therefore is not to treat the blood, but the stomach and liver, and it is under this new idea, that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla was conceived. It has wiped out the "blood disease" theory of pimples, of the old sarsaparillas. A case in point: "I have had for years spells of indigestion and dyspepsia and tried nearly everything. Finally I took one of the leading sarsaparillas. It did not help me, but caused pimples to break out on my face, which I was told was caused by the potash it contained. Hearing that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla did not contain mineral and might act differently, I sent for it. The pimples disappeared immediately and I have now after months had no return of the old spells. It is a cure for indigestion and dyspepsia and the attendant face eruptions.

THE BROTHERHOOD CONTRACT.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 2[illegible].—Secretary Rogers of the Philadelphia baseball club has sent to the presidents of the league clubs the legal opinion that section 18 of the contract now in force between the league clubs and their players, and which is known as the "brotherhood contract," which has been formulated and prepared by that body and accepted by the league, expressly secures to each league club the absolute right to its players' services for the season of 1890. THE PROPOSED BASEBALL TRUST.

CHICAGO, Sept [illegible].—President A G Spalding has been interviewed regarding the rumored baseball trust. ## MISDIRECTED INDUSTRY.

There are many things in this modern work-a-day world that we may with propriety venerate, which, nevertheless, it is worse than a waste of time to revive or restore—things that were useful in their busy, plodding day, but which the restlessness and inventive genius of man have pushed aside to make place for others more fitting and profitable. Each exhibit of the state agricultural society brings out some of these, and pity or thoughtlessness awards them premiums.

Thus, "home-made yarn" may be a test of housewifely industry of the old school, but it certainly does not represent an industry that any one cares to see revived. As well give a premium at an agricultural fair for the best sheaf of grain cut by the sickle, or the best loaf of bread baked in a skillet on the hearth, or a bushel of wheat threshed by a flail, or meal beaten in a mortar, or any other of the many products of primitive methods which an age of invention has rendered obsolete, as to give one for "home-made yarn" and "home-knit socks." There is nothing in these things but waste of time, and a coarse and clumsy product which no one cares to use, or will use unless he cannot get the machine article—a contingency not likely to occur in any civilized community of the present day.

There is no point, whatever, in encouraging such manufactures. The old days when the malodorous "dye pot" adorned one corner of the wide kitchen fire-place, and the spinning wheel kept up its monotonous buzz in the other, while the clumsy loom, with its coarse, bright web of linsey-woolsey or "copperas and blue" shirting, occupied a conspicuous place against the small square windows, have happily passed away. They may have been "good old days," yet there is not the slightest doubt but they appear better in retrospection than they did in possession. They are well enough as associated with the grandmothers of two or three generations past, but their methods would ill befit the requirements of the present day, and so far from being commendable, it is reprehensible, in a pitiful sense, to place the products of these old time industries in competition with the smart fabrics that are turned out by machinery.

The object of exposing the products of industry in competition at agricultural fairs is supposed to be to stimulate endeavor in the lines represented. To have ruled out the bunches of home made yarn, home knit socks and ancient home made woolen shirts, that took premiums at Salem last week, would no doubt have wounded the feelings of the good women who presented them for inspection and competition, but it would have furnished them the needed assurance that the methods of their worthy grandmothers have passed away, and that the purpose of the fair is to bring out the best, and learn of improved methods, through the experience and devices of others, and better and easier ways of attaining more satisfactory results.

Women, possibly through sentiment, probably through lack of opportunity, it may be through a combination of the two, cling pitifully to primitive ways and things in their department of the home long after their husbands and sons have outgrown the corresponding things in their industrial lives. If this were not so there would not be a spinning wheel, or a pair of hand cards, or a hand loom in existence, except as curiosities. The well by the kitchen door would long ago have discarded its heavy windlass for a pump; the churndasher would have been supplanted by a patent device that turns the butter out with little or no labor; the clothes line, that has a habit of parting on a wet day and depositing its burden forlornly in the mud would have given place to a wire, and heavy strawticks, with their load of dust and emanations from the bodies of sleepers would have been pushed aside for woven wire frames.

This disposition to do, or, as our grandmothers would say, to "make out," with a clumsy, inferior article in daily or hourly use about the house, which ingenuity has supplanted by something much more convenient and which ordinary energy can readily acquire, is not one to be encouraged. The hand of improvement is upon everything; change is the order of nature and the woman who loves to produce home-made yarn within the hearing of the whirr of the factory's flying spindles, woolen sheets within sound of the dull thunder of its looms, and socks with the click of its steel fingers ringing in her ears, is more an object of pity than of admiration, and her industry is of a misdirected order that is to be shunned rather than emulated.

ESTIMATES OF POPULATION.

When the first census was taken in 1790 the exact figures of population was 3,929,214. In 1850 our total population was only a little over 23,000,000, about equal to the combined present population of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri. Since 1850, or in the short period of forty years, it has increased by nearly threefold. General M. C. Meigs, U. S. A., a skillful mathematician, estimates that the census of next year will show our population to be 67,240,000. General Meigs's article which appears in Science, is also devoted to a consideration of the probable growth of population during the next century, or from 1890 to 1990. Our mean rate of increase during the last one hundred years has been 33.46, and he thinks it not rash to assume that during the coming century it will be 33.3. On that basis he thus calculates our probable population:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1890 | 67,240,000 | 1950 | 381,703,537 |
| 1900 | 89,653,333 | 1960 | 509,018,449 |
| 1910 | 119,757,777 | 1970 | 678,691,266 |
| 1920 | 159,450,377 | 1980 | 904,921,680 |
| 1930 | 212,867,177 | 1990 | 1,206,562,243 |
| 1940 | 283,822,877 | | |

Mr. Gladstone has estimated that our population by 1990 will equal 700,000,000. General Meigs's estimate would make our population a century hence 390 to the square mile, a little more than that of England to-day, which is 380 to the square mile. Mr. Gladstone's estimate would make our population a century hence 232 to the square mile. The population of Massachusetts to-day is 200 to the square mile. General Meigs estimates that in 1990 the population of our cities will be 2-6,000,000, and of New York alone 20,000,000, and he urges those who believe in his forecast of our growth in population to "rule their undertakings and investments in the expectation that property in real estate must advance in the next half century; and that commerce and transportation must increase enormously."

Extravagance may be a vice distinctively American but it is in evidence that all Americans are not extravagant. An instance of "close figuring" illustrative of this is furnished by a bargain recently driven by a woman who is a resident of a Vermont city. She wanted some peas for dinner, and upon inquiry, learned that they were 25 cents a half peck. After considerable argument she succeeded in getting two quarts for 12 cents, and the next morning, as she needed the half peck, she returned and purchased the other two quarts, saving 1 cent by the transaction. If economy is the road to wealth, this woman ought to be a Vanderbilt in due process of time, the one thing in the way being that she wastes time which might be turned into dollars, in haggling over cents. It is economy of this species which sets a good blacksmith at work to save money by making a pair of shoes for his wife. He could readily earn enough at his legitimate business to buy three pair of well-made shoes in the time he takes to make a clumsy, awkward pair himself. We actually once knew a man who regularly left his reasonably well paying country smithy for several weeks each year while he cobbled uncomfortable foot-wear for his family, and fancied that he saved money, because he didn't have to pay the shoemaker. What a combination he and the Vermont woman above noted would have made for "saving." It by no means follows, however, that they would have "died rich"—the boon for which economists of this type strive through long years, by living in poverty, that is not wretchedness only because they are incapable of understanding the term.

OPPOSING THE CONSTITUTION.

Statements come from many parts of Washington that democratic campaign speakers are denouncing the constitution and trying to induce the people to vote against it.

The reason for this action is purely a partisan one. It is believed by these democratic politicians that Washington will be a sound and steadfast republican state. They cannot hope that the democratic party will be able to control it; and hence they are desirous of keeping it out of statehood as long as possible.

Thus we find in the democratic campaign speakers in Washington the same spirit that so long made it impossible to pass through congress a bill to authorize Washington and other Northwestern territories to frame constitutions and come in as states. The democratic politicians of Washington would prefer that Washington should not be a state, since she would be a republican state.

Likewise the leaders of the democratic party of the country would rejoice if the Washington constitution were beaten, since they would thereby keep two republican senators and one republican representative out of congress, and very probably not be obliged to count Washington's electoral vote against themselves in the next presidential election.

Herein is the secret of the attacks of democratic campaign speakers on the constitution of Washington. Their course indicates a very low type of partisanship. But it is fair to suppose that there are many democrats not politicians or mere partisans whom they cannot induce to vote against the constitution.

THE FRENCH ELECTION.

The most important election in France since 1887 took place on Sunday. The returns show that there is nothing left of Boulanger as a personal force, although Boulangism, as represented by those who desire a revision and recasting of the present constitution, is not extinct. Thiebaud, who is defeated, represented Boulangism in this sense, but he was in no sense an admirer or personal adherent of Boulanger, like Naquet, Dillon and Rochefort.

The trial of Boulanger before the senate proved him an intriguer and conspirator who aimed at the dictatorship. He embezzled $25,000 of the public funds, when war minister, to defray his political expenses; he tried to disorganize the administration, to fill the army with disaffection, and attempted riots in the streets; he watched for a chance, by a coup d'etat, to overturn the government, and corrupted a number of government functionaries and officers, who have since been dismissed from the public service. Boulanger was declared guilty of conspiracy by a senate vote of 206 to 6. He lies politically dead in France, dead because he is in contempt with all parties and because he is an exile who dares not return, since he is a convicted political conspirator against the republic.

The last chamber of deputies was divided into the reactionaries, (made up of Bonapartists and monarchists), opportunists and radicals. Either party was at the mercy of the other two. The chances are that the reactionaries and Boulangists, who both favor the revision of the constitution, will make considerable gains over the moderate republicans, who are opposed to revision. Boulanger is practically an outlaw and, of course, votes for him or his fellow political convicts would amount to nothing.

Democrats this year object to the joint discussion of public questions with their political opponents. Congressman Campbell, of Ohio, will not meet Foraker on the stump, and Senator Daniels, of Virginia, regarded as one of the most eloquent men in the country, will not discuss the political situation in Virginia with General Mahone; nor do the democrats of Washington evince any great anxiety for joint debate with republican speakers. The reason for this diffidence on the part of our democratic brethren is plain. There are too many inconsistencies to be reconciled, and it is too difficult to falsify the plain records of party history when the representative of the opposition is at hand to grasp each misstatement of fact and turn it to political advantage. In Ohio the candidate of the democratic party has been a strong Randall protectionist and he seeks election to the office of governor upon a Cleveland free-trade platform. In Virginia everything is promised. The platform is broad enough for any man to stand on. It promises everything and means nothing. In Washington the democrats will trade, sell, sacrifice leaders, do anything to achieve even partial success. It is this method of unprincipled straddling that makes it next to impossible for the democratic candidate or orator to meet republicans on the stump. It may show wisdom on their part but it doesn't strengthen public confidence in the future of the democratic party.

Mr. Warren, an able writer on the subject of pauperism, has small sympathy with the sentimental view that would shift the responsibility for poverty from the shoulders of the individual to those of the state. Warren argues that depraved morals have much to do with producing the evils of pauperism. The bread-winner not only squanders his money in the gratification of his evil passions, but wastes and destroys the virility which makes him valuable as the progenitor of a race of healthy-minded and stalwart children, since he transmits to his posterity the seeds of social weakness and disorder. Mr. Warren analyzes the effects of individual misconduct and reaches the conclusion that there "is no poverty in the world which does not have its source in personal depravity." He says: "The strong, healthy men are sure to prosper; and it is unquestionably for the advantage of the race that only they should endure. It is a hard law, but law it is, that the weak must go to the wall. Human beings may offer sympathies to them, but the great God is merciless, for he knows nothing except immutable law."

The strike only succeeds when those engaged therein avoid violence and keep within the law. By these means the dock laborers of London achieved their victory, which, however, does not seem to be worth the cost. The London docks handle nearly 80,000 vessels per annum, carrying 20,000,000 tons of merchandise, valued at $1,130,000,000. For labor that was practically unorganized to win a fight against the monetary aggregation that backs interests of such magnitude was a great triumph, but the cost arising from the cessation of trade, from the loss of merchandise of a perishable nature, from wages to the dock hands, to merchants that depend upon these classes for trade, is utterly beyond calculation. Every branch of industry throughout the whole area of England has felt the strain. The only substantial benefit that has arisen from this great strike is that the world has been awakened to the condition of English labor, and that the wisest and best men of that nation are seeking some remedy for existing evils. All that was gained in the fight is an agreement to pay 12 cents an hour. This will accomplish no permanent improvement in the condition of labor as long as there are 100,000 men always ready to do the work which can only keep 10,000 men busy at reasonable earnings with steady employment.

It is not incumbent upon posterity to canonize each dead man who may have aided in making history, yet the method of some modern historians would tend to create such belief. The supersensitive may hide their heads in pious horror at truth that shatters idols and ideals, but we have no right to cheat unborn generations by suppressing the facts of history. All men are concerned in knowing each fact that centers about the life of a great man. Men have been shocked at the revelations contained in Herndon's life of Lincoln, yet the great Lincoln himself was never abashed or disconcerted over his own clouded origin. The lesson of Lincoln's life is priceless. It gives courage to the ambitious, hope to the unfortunate, fortitude to the humble. With all his coarseness, which was the heritage of the border life, this man Lincoln brought to questions of state government and national politics a higher and deeper sense of morality than any other statesman of which our history gives record. The truth will never tarnish Lincoln's fame, nor lessen the honor that clings to his name.

On the first day of July last there were 489,725 names upon the pension rolls, and to-day there are probably not less than 500,000. The outlay for pensions in 1871 was $34,443,895. It had dropped to $27,137,019 in 1878, but in 1879 it rose to $35,121,482; the next year it was $56,777,174, and for the year preceding July 1, 1889 it was $88,275,113. During the last ten years the annual expenditure for pensions has increased so rapidly that it is to-day three times as great as in 1878, and greater by $60,000,000 than eleven years ago. Up to July 1, 1883, there were but 303,658 pensioners. During the last six years 186,067 names have been added, and of this net increase 144,690 have been added since July 1, 1885. The number of claims on file when General Black made his report was 800,000; so that if it were possible to adjudicate all these claims to-day and pass the indiscriminate service pension bill, we should have a pension roll over a million strong.

S. E. Gilbert, a Union veteran, writes us, referring to Corporal Tanner's military history, contributed to the New York Sun by a G. A. R. correspondent and re-published in THE OREGONIAN, that "good and brave men were often wounded while in rear of an army." THE OREGONIAN has never disputed this fact; it has only said that men who were neither "good" nor "brave" were sometimes wounded in the rear of an army, trying to dodge duty with their comrades at the front. In other words stragglers are not always safe when they think they are out of the line of destructive fire, and for this reason skulkers are sometimes able to show scars that do not stand for honorable wounds. There is an obvious distinction between a soldier who is wounded in the rear of an army doing his duty in obedience to orders, and a soldier wounded in the rear of an army while playing laggard or skulking his way out of action.

Connecticut, on the 7th of October next, will vote on the question of the adoption of constitutional prohibition. There is no excitement on either side in the campaign thus far, and the advocates of the amendment are making a very sluggish contest, for they are disheartened by their defeats in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania. Not one republican daily in Connecticut has yet espoused the cause of prohibition; the democratic press are without exception outspoken against the amendment, and the prospect is that it will be beaten by not less than 20,000 to 25,000 majority. Connecticut already has an excellent local option law, which in effect amounts to prohibition in all communities or towns in which a majority of the voters desire the abolishment of licensed drinking places, and so declare their will by their ballots at the annual town meeting.

The people of this city have had their thoughts recently turned toward that most helpless and pitiable class of humanity—the dependent children of the community, through statements and appeals that were sufficiently powerful and pathetic to engage the attention of the most indifferent. Whatever may be the opinion of individuals relative to other unfortunates, there is but one sentiment, that of profound pity, for the helpless waifs stranded upon an unknown shore without shelter or guidance, except as these are furnished by charity. A community, however charitably disposed, must derive profit from the presentation of facts, and the result of experiments in dealing with this class, such as was given at the Tabernacle here on Sunday afternoon.

New issues develop with the growth of this and other American nations that need wise and judicious treatment. Prosperous states and stable governments have arisen to the south of the United States, whose commercial interests are in great degree identified with our own. The shippers of Central and South America find the United States the most profitable market for surplus products by reason of close proximity, while in turn they offer to our manufacturers the best possible points of distribution. Legislation looking to the promotion of this commerce should follow the deliberations of the congress of American nations that will meet in Washington during the month of October. It is an issue fraught with vast importance to the interests of the entire American continent.

The Atlanta Constitution is an able newspaper which sometimes rises above its surroundings. A statement, however, was published in that newspaper recently, which charged that President Harrison appointed only "carpetbaggers" to office in Georgia. Colonel A. E. Burt, republican postmaster at Atlanta, has investigated the charge and finds that out of a list of 130 appointments 127 were resident natives of the state and the other three had lived there many years. The same method has characterized the majority of the president's Southern appointments. Nothing better could possibly have been done.

The ship canal under construction to Manchester, England, will be a very costly work. The Financial Times says that at the end of the present year something like £6,600,000 will have been spent, and a very large portion of the work will still remain to be accomplished. The company, it thinks, will be obliged to go to parliament for permission to raise more capital. About 12,000 men are at work on the canal.

Two men have ridden on horseback across the continent, arriving in San Francisco Saturday, 130 days out from New York. There is little in such a feat but waste of time. A tedious journey is commendable only when there is no way of accomplishing it with reasonable rapidity. The horseback and ox-team era was a useful one, but it has had its day, and he who returns to it proves nothing but his own folly.

The emperors of Germany and Russia are stalking about with a chip tottering on their shoulders, daring each other to knock it off; and courting a temper that is likely to end in the slaughter of thousands of soldiers of the imperial armies. If those who make political quarrels were the only ones involved in the fight that frequently results, the defiant attitude of the choleric Muscovite, and the irascible Brandenberg would excite little interest. But when despots talk in lordly strains about their armies, exchange samples of gunpowder and specimens of the latest improvements in musketry and artillery and hunt for personal grievances in the interim, interest in the situation becomes intense, since it is clear that somebody is likely to get hurt and equally clear that it will not be those who create the broil.

---

It is reported that the city of New York has not sufficient school facilities to accommodate all the children that seek public education. If this is true it would not be a bad idea for the citizens to invest some money in additional school houses and for the pay of teachers and let Chicago have the world's fair, which, after all, may prove an expensive luxury to either city.

---

George W. Childs, of Philadelphia, is continually performing neat and appropriate deeds. The latest is in the presentation to West Point of portraits of Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, the three characteristic American soldiers. It would be a difficult task to find in the country a man who in his day and time has done as much substantial good as George W. Childs.

---

Mr. C. P. Huntington, a railroad magnate, who is not given to bad bargains, has concluded not to indulge in the luxury of a debt-laden son-in-law, whose only recommendation is the fact of accidental noble birth. Perhaps Miss Huntington will be compelled to worry along with a plain American husband after all. There are plenty in the market.

Farmers and fruit growers of Southern Oregon will make an excellent display of grains, grasses and fruit at their fair at Central Point this week, notwithstanding the slight rainfall of the past year. They are by no means discouraged, though more rain in the early part of the season would have been a great advantage to them.

Judge Thurman, the "old Roman," has decided not to enter the campaign in Ohio. The last democratic funeral in the conduct of which he played so important a part was enough to serve him for the remainder of his days. He thinks it wise to give the younger men of the democratic party an opportunity.

The report of the president and secretary of the Board of Trade of Portland, published to-day, contain matter to which attention may be directed. They show great progress in business, in industry, and in general development of the country.

Mrs. Langtry declares that she is going to compel the play-goers of Britain to acknowledge her ability as an actress before she returns to the United States. John Bull's proverbial stubbornness may work us a good turn after all.

The "race question," which has been the subject of considerable comment recently in THE OREGONIAN and other Northern newspapers, is, in the South, daily and permanently, a topic of intense discussion. It is still a problem and one portentous of danger. Fords, Howard and Hulbert, New York, have now in press a book, entitled "An Appeal to Pharaoh: a Radical Solution of the Negro Problem," the advance sheets of which show that the author has dealt with the subject candidly and temperately. It is strong in argument and lucid and attractive in style. The book must make a deep impression and secure a wide reading for there can be no genuine "union" of North and South, no wholesome prosperity in one-half the land, and no possibility of proper attention to the many important interests of the whole country until in some way "the negro question" is eliminated from our politics. No other topic will healthfully divide Southern opinion so long as this one solidifies it. It will be worth much to have a positive plan to talk about, and the author of this little book thinks he has one to present.

My final announcement will be made by Saturday, as my agents, Kahn Bros, Bine & Co., wired me that their broker has notified them that I can now make my Fall announcement. All I need to add in this connection is that I claim once more that I will be able to show a better selection (not quantity, but correct goods,) than can Arnold, Constaple & Co., of New York.

The Parisian Wraps, of which there is but one of each on exhibition at my parlors, will be shown to the ladies by Mrs. Hall, my first fitter.

NO PLACE LIKE OLD OREGON.

That Is What Father Fierens Says After a Long Trip in the Old World.

He Had an Interview With the Pope and Says the Story of his Contemplated Departure From the Eternal City Is Absurd.

Very Reverend J F Fierens vicar general of the Catholic diocese of Oregon is resting after a fourteen months tour in the Old World. He traveled in England, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Switzerland, Turkey, Greece, Syria, crossed the desert of Sahara, wandered among the pyramids of Egypt and saw all there was to see in Palestine and Jerusalem. While in Rome he had an audience with Pope Leo. Father Fierens had just lighted a well filled corncob pipe and was enjoying a quiet smoke when a reporter called on him at the archiepiscopal residence yesterday.

I traveled far and wide but I found no place like Oregon, he said. It is Oregon against the world with me, but there was a little too much smoke for my comfort last week. It is prosperous and blooming and the people are better off than they are aware of. In fact they do not know of the great extent of their blessings. They have everything to make life happy in the greatest abundance. I found the people of the Old World generally contented but if they knew what a fine country we have here and had the means of reaching it, they would not be so well pleased with their situation.

Is there any truth in the story that the pope will soon depart from Rome?

"That is all bosh. The pope will never leave Rome. That is his place and always has been, and he will stay there or die there. All the Italian government can do is to take off his head, and there is no danger of that. Crispi, the prime minister is a moral vagrant, a man without religious principle. When a man is in power he can do pretty much as he likes. Crispi's object is to divert the people from the church. They are Catholics and he cannot make them Protestants, but his course may make them bad Christians. The day of the downfall of the Italian government is not far away. It is now tottering on weak legs and the hour of final dissolution is close. The taxes are something fearful. The people are taxed for every thing they use, and it is a wonder that they are not taxed for living. If a man tacks a For Rent notice on his property he must take it to a government official and have it stamped, for which he must pay a fee. If he neglects to do so he lays himself liable to a heavy fine.

ONE YEAR'S GROWTH.

President Macleay's Annual Review of Business.

HEALTHY INCREASE REPORTED

James Turk, the Sailor Boarding House Keeper, Promises the Board of Trade That He Will Reform.

The annual meeting of the Portland Board of Trade was held at their chambers last evening, President Donald Macleay in the chair and an unusually large number of members present.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Board of Trade of Port Angeles indorsing two petitions, one to the senate and house of representatives praying that Port Angeles be made a sub port of entry and a port of call, and the other to the postmaster general praying for a daily mail service to that place and asking that the board indorse the petitions, and which request was granted.

A communication was also read calling attention to the fact that no provision has yet been made for a new cable to Tatoosh island and asking the aid of the board in securing such appropriation.

In this matter Mr Dodd stated it had been placed in the hands of our delegation in congress some time since.

TOWAGE AND LIGHTERAGE.

From W. & J. Lockett of Liverpool, England, stating that they had secured the insertion of a cablegram in reference to the heavy reduction in towage and lighterage on the Columbia river in a large number of the papers of Great Britain, without charge.

On motion the board extended a vote of thanks to Messrs Lockett for their kindness in this matter.

NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE.

From the National Board of Trade stating that the twentieth annual meeting of the board will be held in Louisville, Ky., on the 16th of October.

SUBJECT SELECTED.

The committee who had in charge the selection of a subject to be considered at this meeting reported that they had selected "Our river highways as factors in cheap transportation." This action was confirmed and the committee discharged.

DELEGATE APPOINTED.

On motion the chairman was instructed to appoint a delegate to the National Board of Trade, and he appointed Hon. D. P. Thompson.

INADEQUATE ACCOMMODATIONS.

From the Aberdeen board of trade calling attention to the inadequate steamer accommodations between Portland and that place.

President Macleay said the president of the steamship company claimed that they have ample facilities.

On motion a committee consisting of Messrs. D[illegible], McFall and Osborne, was appointed by the chair to look into the matter and report.

REPORTED FAVORABLY.

The committee on membership having reported favorably on the applications of the Pacific Coast Elevator Company and Frank Motter, they were unanimously elected members of the board.

BRIEF VERBAL REPORT.

Mr William Kapus made a brief verbal report of the doings of the committee sent to attend the meeting of commercial bodies at San Francisco, which, on motion, was received and the committee discharged.

RELIEF MATTERS.

The committee on relief reported that they had cleared up all their accounts and did not owe a dollar. A large amount had been collected for the relief of Johnstown, Seattle, Ellensburgh, Spokane Falls and Bailey, and he believed every dollar sent from Portland had been carefully distributed. There had been some trouble at Spokane but it was not so bad as had been represented and the people of that city would clear their skirts of the matter.

On motion the committee on relief was discharged.

INCREASED FIRE FACILITIES.

Councilman Farrell, who was present, was asked for information in regard to the proposed increased fire facilities.

He said it had been decided to get two new fire engines with hose carts, horses, etc., etc., complete.

The matter of a fire boat had been referred to a committee which will report at the next meeting of the council.

JAMES TURK HEARD FROM.

Here President Macleay was called to the door and soon returned with Mr. James Turk, who was given a seat till he could have opportunity to address the meeting.

Mr Quackenbush of the committee appointed to attend to the enforcement of the law for protection to seamen said the council's appointment of J. J. Byrne as harbor policeman was not acceptable to the committee. He said some one had been betrayed into giving them a man in whom they could not have full confidence. It was an exceedingly unfortunate thing and likely to cause delay, but the board cannot accept any one, on whom it cannot rely, even on election day. He moved that the committee be increased to five and this matter referred to them with full power to act, which carried.

In regard to the recent suit against James Turk, Mr Quackenbush and Mr E. N. Deady had been engaged to assist the district attorney and the committee were determined to push the matter to the full extent of the law.

At this point President Macleay informed Mr. Turk, the defendant in the suit referred to, that he could address the board.

Mr Turk after referring to his long residence here, said he had made up his mind to do what is right and just, to leave Astoria and the combination he is in there. "They don't carry on right and Mr. Turk said I don't do right myself. I am willing to do right and take no more than the law [illegible] allows for sailors."

He said he would go down to Astoria and see that the Lord Gumming got a crew. He would quit his house at Astoria and all his combinations there, not because of the trouble he was in. He hoped that matter would be overlooked and there would be no more of it. He promised faithfully to obey the law and to study the interests of the commerce of Portland.

Mr Turk's good resolutions were applauded and he marched out. The case against him will, however, probably be pushed to a conclusion for the warning of others who have not abandoned their evil ways.

PRESIDENT MACLEAY'S ADDRESS.

Gentlemen of the Board of Trade. The year which has just closed has been marked by many and varied incidents of extreme interest to the business community of Portland. It has been, without exception, the most prosperous year in our history.

Our city has grown very rapidly and a number of magnificent blocks have been erected. The great hotel is almost completed. The Industrial fair building has been finished and is about to open its doors for its first annual exposition.

Street railroads, motor lines and the cable road have been extended in every direction. One of the largest grain elevators on the coast is completed. Numerous manufacturing establishments have been built, or have added new structures to those already in existence and the greatest number of dwellings that have ever been erected in any one year have been put up within our city during the past twelve months. One of the most gratifying features of the situation is the fact that the increase in trade and commerce has been felt alike evenly in all branches. No one business is growing at the expense of others, but all alike are pressing forward. Notwithstanding the large amounts of capital which have been absorbed by fires in the surrounding country, there has been an abundance of money for all legitimate purposes. Rates of interest have been well maintained, but our banks have extended accommodation wherever needed and no branch of business has suffered for lack of ready money.

We are surrounded in every direction by active and enterprising communities whose energetic business men are rapidly building up a great commercial empire. It behooves Portland as the financial and commercial center of this Northwest country to extend every aid in its power toward building up all the various towns in which reside our friends and customers. No truer example of the good effects which follow increase of population can be adduced than the effect upon our trade of the growth of the cities on Puget sound. A line of steamers from Portland to all ports on Puget sound has been established by the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company. At first it consisted of one steamer, then a second was put on, and now a third has been added, and these three steamers are in demand to carry the freight which our merchants are sending out to all sections of that inland sea.

This makes the same service between Portland and Puget sound as now exists between Portland and San Francisco. The local business between these two sections of country will alone contribute very largely to the profitable operation of this line of steamers, and it is one more opportunity for the extension of Portland's business enterprises.

The Portland and Coast Steamship Company's line made its first trip to Gray's Harbor on July 7, 1889. It started with one steamer making weekly trips to Gray's Harbor and every two weeks to Shoalwater bay and Tillamook. This company now employs three steamers, and it is likely, in the near future, more will be added to the list. The same is true of interior points. We come into active competition with San Francisco, St. Paul and Chicago, but our merchants hold their own and feel confident of their ability to compete in the future as they have in the past with all competitors who may invade our business field.

In financial circles the increase of business has been so great as to demand the establishment of a clearing house. This institution was opened on the 15th of July, 1889, with a membership of ten banks. Its operation has justified the wisdom of its formation, its clearings having averaged $1,477,144.00 per week since it was opened. Among our statistical tables will be found a detailed report of its operations, which will be scanned with interest by merchants and financiers throughout the country, and will afford a good index of the extent of our business and the strength of our financial resources.

Real estate transactions in Multnomah county have increased over four and one half millions of dollars. This increase has been principally in suburban tracts which are now attracting the attention of capitalists throughout the country and are eagerly sought after by our own citizens.

City property has greatly increased in value and the increase is not confined to any part of the city but seems uniform in all sections.

DIVERSIFIED FARMING.

I note with pleasure that the farmers of Oregon are greatly increasing the number and variety of their products. There is however great room for improvement in this direction.

The breeding of swine should become one of the leading industries of Oregon. It is true that it may be difficult to compete with the corn fed swine of the Middle Western states, but with freights in our favor and with cheap wheat and other suitable food there is no reason why an immense industry in hog products should not grow up within the borders of our state.

There have been certain attempts to establish creameries within this state during the last year which I regret to say have not met with the measure of success that such enterprises deserve. I am however of the opinion that these partial failures have been due principally to the lack of cold storage facilities which have now been supplied and that the difficulties met with thus far are only those incident to the establishment of any new untried line of business.

With our climate so magnificently adapted to dairying industries there is no reason why creameries should not be successfully carried on in Oregon.

It is pleasing to note the fact that the manufacture of cheese in this state has been successful. Oregon now produces an excellent quality of cheese in sufficient quantities to supply the demand for home consumption and [illegible] a fair amount for export [illegible] Columbia, Washington [illegible] Montana [illegible] points.

This branch of industry [illegible] increase [illegible] should [illegible] source of great profit to the farmers of our [illegible].

MANUFACTORIES.

The year has shown a most remarkable increase in the number of firms engaged in manufacturing and in the character and variety of the products. On the 16th inst. THE OREGONIAN, with the enterprise characteristic of that ably conducted journal, published a special edition devoted to the manufacturing industries of Portland. By permission I quote from its columns the following figures:

The number of firms engaged in manufacturing is 592.

Total capital invested, $12,693,60[illegible]; of this amount all but $10,000 is local capital.

The output of our factories for the year 1889 will be $18,[illegible] worth of manufactured goods.

An increase over 1888 of $[illegible].

The number of hands employed 1[illegible].

About 40 per cent of the product of our factories is sold outside of Portland, much of it going to the Atlantic states and even abroad.

When we reflect that this magnificent showing is the result of our own unassisted endeavors we have every reason to feel proud of the wealth and stability of our city and to feel hopeful that the future will have a development in store for us which will far surpass our most sanguine expectations.

RAILROADS.

The magnificent steel railroad bridge between Portland and East Portland, including the wagon roadway, has been entirely finished and has been in constant use since the date of my last report.

An electric motor line is now being built over the wagon roadway of this bridge, which will supplement our city transportation system and prove a great convenience to the dwellers upon the east side of the river.

The Southern Pacific Railway Company, the Northern Pacific Railroad Company and the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company have about concluded arrangements for the establishment of a full and adequate system of terminal facilities on the west side of the river in the city of Portland for the several roads owned by those corporations. It is expected that every facility necessary for handling our rapidly increasing business will be provided and the unsatisfactory condition of affairs which has so long prevailed [illegible] be removed and our merchants and the traveling public in general will have no reason to complain of the conditions to be provided in the near future.

An important movement in railway circles was the purchase by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company of the lines of the Oregon [illegible] Railroad Company (limited). This narrow gauge road running through the most fertile parts of the Willamette valley has been for years in the hands of a receiver. Its usefulness has been impaired and it has been utterly inadequate to serve the wants of the communities through which it passes. As it is now in strong hands it will be placed at once in first-class condition to handle the business which properly belongs to it and will prove a valuable adjunct to the general system of rail roads centering in Portland.

The lines of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company have been greatly extended during the past year. That company has completed a branch from Willows to Heppner, a distance of about forty-five miles, opening up a considerable amount of wheat country and giving access to a fine stock and wool producing region.

A line from Texas Ferry to La Crosse junction, a distance of about twenty-four miles, was also completed during the year and a new steel bridge erected over Snake river, thus giving access via the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's lines to all portions of the Palouse country direct.

What is known as the Pleasant Valley line, between Winona junction and Seltice junction, both in Washington territory, a distance of about forty [illegible] miles, was entirely finished and opened for operation about the middle of July of this year. This is wheat country [illegible] and there are several new and enterprising towns now located upon it.

The line from Farmington was completed to Rockford, a distance of thirty-three and seven tenths miles, passing through good wheat country the entire distance and reaching the lower belt of a good timber country. The towns of Tekoa, Latah, Rogers and Rockford are located on this line and all of them are good, live, active and growing places.

There is now under construction to be completed within the next month the extension of the line from Rockford to Spokane Falls, a distance of about 2[illegible] miles. This will give direct communication between Portland and Spokane Falls via the line of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, passing through the whole of the fertile valleys of [illegible] known as the Palouse country, the Walla Walla valley and Umatilla county, all of which together form the main wheat growing district of Eastern Washington territory. Immigrants hereafter will be taken over this line and distributed to much better advantage than heretofore, as the main lines of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company and of the Northern Pacific railroad pass through a country which does not present an inviting aspect from the railroad track and which strangers can be scarcely be made to believe is an agricultural country.

There is also under construction to be completed by the 1st of December a line from Tekoa to Mullan through the Coeur d'Alene country, a distance of eighty-seven miles. This line will give access to the Coeur d'Alene mines and will render tributary to Portland the vast mineral wealth of the Coeur d'Alene country, besides affording a large market for merchandise and agricultural products.

It is expected that the completion of this line of railroad will greatly stimulate mining enterprises in that region and will enable the mine owners to handle low grade ores and all other products of their mines to much greater advantage than at present. Several railroads have been incorporated for the purpose of building lines of road between Portland, via Tacoma and Seattle to a connection with the Canadian Pacific railway, with branch lines to Gray's Harbor and Port Townsend. It is not known yet exactly in whose interests the articles of incorporation have been filed, but growing interest in these roads and the belief that they will be paying enterprises, warrant the feeling that within a year or two some one of the roads will be built.

There are also several parties looking into the project of a road between Portland and Astoria. The rich timber country and indications of coal between these two points will probably be attractive enough in the course of time to warrant the building of this road in connection with some of the transcontinental lines.

The Oregon Pacific road also continues the extension of its lines and is opening up a rich and fertile section of our state.

DEEP SEA FREIGHTS AND TONNAGE.

In sympathy with a general improvement in freights throughout the world during the last half of 1888 ships obtained full rates at this port as high as 52s 6d U. K. for orders having been paid for handy iron vessels during the months of October and November. After the opening of 1889, rates commenced to recede and gradually weakened until in April and May last 35s for the business named was accepted.

For the coming season some tonnage has been engaged at rates varying from 37s 6d to [illegible]s, which latter figure is now demanded for ships due up to the end of December.

The following table about covers the fluctuations of this market during the past harvest year ending July 31st, 1889:

August 1st to December 31st. August opened with business done at 40s and rates quickly advancing until at the close of the month [illegible] was paid to arrive, and this rate was practically maintained until December 31st, a few small ships having obtained as high as [illegible] 6d.

January 1st to March 31st [illegible] to 40s.

April 1st to May 31st [illegible] 6d to [illegible].

June 1st to July 31st [illegible] to 40s.

In this connection it may be stated that owing to the exertions of this Board of Trade during the last sessions of the legislature of this state very favorable legislation was obtained whereby pilotage charges on the Columbia bar and river have been materially reduced. Below will be found the schedule of charges promulgated by the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company when their tugs are employed for towage or pilotage from the sea to Portland and return, viz:

Total charges for pilotage and towage from the sea or from Astoria to Portland and return, taking effect May 21, 1889:

- Vessels not exceeding 800 tons register $4[illegible]0
- Over 800 to 1200 tons $[illegible]00
- Over 1200 tons to 1600 tons $[illegible]
- Over 1600 tons to 2100 tons $600
- Over 2100 tons special
- Use of tug's hawsers $20 each way

Lighterage upon grain and its products from Portland to Astoria 50c per ton of 2000 pounds.

Lighterage upon other freight $1 per ton weight or measurement, company's option.

Moving a vessel in port, $10.

The board also obtained passage of a law now in effect whereby ships are protected from the abuses heretofore practiced by the sailor boarding houses of this city and Astoria.

The above named reductions in towage and pilotage, and the proper enforcement of the sailor's boarding house bill, will reduce the expenses of ships at this port by (approximately) from [illegible] to [illegible] per ton and must [illegible] favorable [illegible].

The benefits of these reductions are already commencing to be felt in the number of ships that have come in and [illegible] that have [illegible] in expenditures [illegible] and [illegible] last year and the charges before at this time [illegible] were in this port of from $800 to $1200. These reductions render the port of Portland as cheap as any port on the Pacific coast and it only remains for this matter to be established in the minds of ship owners to hold and improve the vast export trade which heretofore has been and should be, tributary to the port of Portland.

In order to make this matter plain to the ship owners of the United Kingdom and other foreign countries I sent on the [illegible] of August to Messrs W. & J. Lockett of Liverpool the following cable gram:

[illegible] kindly gave following to one leading commercial paper in London, Liverpool, Glasgow:

He [illegible] reductions in rates towage and lighterage on Columbia river to Portland, Or., beginning to show

THE WHEAT CROP.

[illegible]

THE SALMON PACK.

The salmon pack for the season of 1889 will run between 30,000 and [illegible] cases, being about 11 per cent short of the pack of 1888. Much work has been done during the past year in improving the facilities for hatching salmon at the Clackamas hatchery on the river of that name not far from Oregon City. This hatchery is now carried on by the United States government and it is to be earnestly hoped that the efforts now being made will prove successful and that a large increase in salmon of the Columbia river will be the result.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Since the date of our last report work upon this most important interoceanic highway has been actually begun. The company which has been formed to construct it is purely American, and American capital and enterprise will without doubt push the work to early completion. I believe that by 1895 the bulk of the grain from this coast destined for the United Kingdom will pass through the completed canal. The benefits to be derived from this gigantic work cannot be overestimated [illegible] acre of land on the Pacific coast will derive an additional value from the increased facilities for getting our grain to market and we cannot do too much to urge the good work forward by all means in our power.

STATISTICS OF THE YEAR.

The total exports from the Columbia river amounted in value to $16,[illegible], exceeding those of last year by $1,4[illegible].

The shipments of wheat showed a decrease of 1,[illegible] centals.

The shipments of flour showed an increase of 10,[illegible] barrels.

The receipts of wheat showed a decrease of 1,827,603 centals.

The receipts of flour showed an increase of 76,[illegible] barrels.

The increase in wool exports amounted to 8,400,126 pounds. Increase in value of wool exports $1,[illegible].

Salmon exports decreased in quantity [illegible] cases, increased in value $[illegible].

Increase in exports of oats 2,687 centals, in value $18,701.

The increase in flour exports is particularly gratifying [illegible].

[illegible]

Real estate transactions in Multnomah county have increased $4,[illegible], total being $[illegible].

Buildings erected in Portland have increased $[illegible].

Receipts of custom duties at this port increased $[illegible].

[illegible] income of the Portland postoffice has increased $[illegible].

The banking capital has increased $[illegible].

THE WOOL CLIP.

The wool clip of Oregon [illegible] the year of 1889 shows a marked decrease in weight as compared with 1888 [illegible] may be set down at [illegible] pounds. The amount of [illegible] which passed through Portland and shipped from Oregon railroad points reaches a total of about 1,000,000 pounds, [illegible] pounds heretofore received from Washington territory and Idaho [illegible].

The quality of the wool clip of Eastern Oregon for [illegible] was superior to 1888 [illegible]. The price of wool has been fairly satisfactory [illegible].

[illegible]

The prices obtained by growers at interior points average [illegible] cents for all good grades. Consumption within the state by woolen mills [illegible] about 2,500,000 pounds, of which the Oregon City mills alone [illegible] about 1,000,000 pounds.

The ranges in Eastern Oregon and Washington having been heavily [illegible] for feeding flocks [illegible] that the government should institute experiments looking to their reseeding with varieties of grasses suited to our soil and climate. This reseeding could be done at a comparatively small expense and would result in immense advantage to our wool industry.

RIVER AND HARBOR WORK.

During the year last past much progress has been made in the work of improving the mouth of the Columbia river.

The jetty proper is now under construction for a little more than one and a half miles. Rock has been dumped to the mean low water over an average of about one mile of this distance. It is expected that by the end of the present working season, which will be about the 1st of December, the jetty tramway will be advanced about one half mile farther.

Within the last year a marked change has taken place on the Clatsop spit and in the channel over the Columbia river bar. The spit shows steadily more bare surface at low water than formerly and the channel of the river has a decided tendency towards a straight course out to sea. Tillamook, where there were indications that a new channel was being cut southward across Clatsop spit when the work was commenced is now being closed, although the jetty work is not yet within one half mile of it. It is observed that as the mattress work is carried out the sand spit builds up on the south side abreast of and sometimes ahead of it. At extreme low water one can walk on the sand out as far as the mattress work extends. The indications now are that the work has progressed to such a point that it is having a manifest influence upon the natural forces at work in the vicinity and that these forces are bringing about the result desired.

The engineer in charge is engaged upon a great project, that of controlling the waters of the second largest and most important river in the United States at the point where it enters the Pacific ocean. The work will extend [illegible] out into that ocean for a distance of perhaps over four miles. The great forces of nature seem at this time to be aiding in these attempts at development [illegible] to a complete success of the project.

In view of the immense importance of the interests involved in this great work, affecting as it does the commerce of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana with California, China, Japan and the European nations, I take great pleasure in stating that we have been fortunate during the past year in having opportunities of taking some of the leading public men of the United States to inspect the work. Members of the national senate and house of representatives have seen with their own eyes the magnitude of the undertaking and have been convinced [illegible] a prompt and liberal appropriation of the [illegible] necessary to complete [illegible] that congress would appropriate at once the full amount needed to complete [illegible] would finish the jetty and relieve the commerce of the Columbia river for all time from the barrier of a shallow entrance to that great inland waterway.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE CANAL AT THE CASCADES OF THE COLUMBIA RIVER, OREGON.

The general scope of the improvement which it is desired to effect at the cascades of the Columbia river includes a reach of about four and a half miles, where the river rushes through a narrow gorge in the Cascade mountains. The fall in this distance is about forty five feet at high water and thirty six feet at low water. The principal obstruction to navigation occurs at the upper end of the reach known as Upper Cascades. The project for this improvement contemplates that the river should be improved below the Upper Cascades by removing bowlders and projecting points in the bed and banks so as to give good navigable water from its lowest up to a twenty foot stage. The fall at the Upper Cascades is to be overcome by digging a canal about 3000 feet in length across the neck of a low projecting spur, around which the river is forced at the entrance to the gorge, and placing in this a lock and other [illegible] structures which would permit of the passage of boats [illegible] the river. [illegible] should the future needs of commerce so demand additional structures may be added which will permit of navigation at much higher [illegible].

The first part of this project, that of improving the river below the foot of the Upper Cascades, is essentially finished. The difference of level between the head and foot of the canal as now established is fifteen feet at [illegible] twenty four feet at low water and the difference in height between [illegible] low water at the outlet is fifty four feet and at the head forty five feet.

The plan on which the future work on the canal [illegible].

Portland, Or., Sept. 23, 1889.

At the conclusion of his address President Macleay was loudly applauded.

SECRETARY ARNOLD'S REPORT.

To the President of the Board of Trade of Portland, Or. Sir—I herewith present statements of such matters of public concern as [illegible] business interests of our community. At no time in the history of our city has it presented such an attractive field for the investment of capital nor has at any time this field been so well explored and such [illegible] by our own citizens and by non-resident capitalists.

Our membership has been well maintained during the year and the attendance at our meetings has been large. Many interesting subjects have been discussed and much practical good has been accomplished by the efforts of the board.

[Here follows a summary of the several meetings held during the year, accounts of which have been published in THE OREGONIAN.]

THE CITY AND SUBURBS.

I can scarcely avoid repeating my remarks of last year in regard to the growth of Portland and its suburbs. The phenomenal increase in the number of dwelling houses erected during the last year has been perhaps the most marked feature. Portland is a city of homes. There is not a tenement house in the New York sense of that term within our borders. Vast numbers of our citizens own their own homes. Neat cottages and more pretentious dwellings have sprung up in every direction and are usually [illegible] by well kept grounds indicative of thrift and prosperity on the part of the owners. [illegible] numbers of business buildings have also been erected. A number of magnificent brick blocks have gone up. The great terminal elevator [illegible] more fully hereafter, looms up a mammoth monument of industry.

There is scarcely a factory of any kind that has not increased the area of its buildings and the amount of its plant.

THE PORTLAND CORDAGE COMPANY

The Portland Cordage Company has arranged to erect a new building and stock it with machinery, which will about double its productive capacity.

THE PORTLAND HOTEL COMPANY.

The hotel building 200 feet square upon the block bounded by Sixth, Seventh, Morrison and Yamhill streets, for the use of the hotel company, is almost completed. It is a magnificent structure and should be opened to the public about the first of the coming [illegible]. Its management will be in the hands of Messrs. [illegible] E. Leland, of the well known family of hotel managers of that name. The building is in all respects a credit to our city. It has been erected entirely with local capital at an expense of $600,000 for the structure and about $1[illegible],000 for the furnishing.

THE MARQUAM OPERA HOUSE.

The Hon. P. A. Marquam, one of our most public spirited citizens, is now engaged in the erection of a magnificent opera house and business block facing on Morrison street immediately opposite the Portland hotel. This structure will be complete in every detail, and will be fully up to the most advanced modern standards of opera houses in other sections.

The portion of the building to be used for business purposes will be eight stories high.

Our city is to be congratulated upon the fact that one of our oldest citizens has evinced enterprise enough to construct such a splendid and [illegible] which will be a credit to the place where he has made his fortune.

SUBURBAN TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES.

The number of motor lines and electric railways which are now in operation in our suburbs affords a striking contrast to the slow coach horse cars in the city proper.

The Metropolitan railway company is pushing work vigorously on its electric motor line to [illegible] Park. A large amount of work has been done in clearing and grubbing the right of way and a part of the line has been graded. The ties are being laid.

This company has purchased from the [illegible] Railway Company the franchise along Second street to the railroad depots at the north end and it is expected that the line from the depots to [illegible] Park will be in running order by the middle of October.

THE HOLLADAY'S ADDITION AND ALBINA ELECTRIC LINE.

This line will run down [illegible] street [illegible] in Holladay's addition and will cross [illegible] into Albina. It will start from the [illegible] bridge into Albina [illegible] corner of Third and G streets in this city [illegible] railroad bridge and [illegible]. It is also expected [illegible] the Woodstock [illegible] electric [illegible] will be in operation by the first of the year. This road [illegible] many desirable building sites [illegible] heretofore inaccessible except by those who can afford to keep their own conveyances.

THE CABLE ROAD.

The cable road which runs from the railroad [illegible] to the summit of Portland Heights is making good progress. [illegible]

[illegible]

THE MULTNOMAH STREET RAILWAY COMPANY

[illegible]

[illegible] COLD STORAGE [illegible] COMPANY.

[illegible] capacity of 1,000 tons [illegible] for holding fruits [illegible] eggs, butter, cheese, fruits and vegetables, smoked and pickled meats. Each of the stores [illegible] kept in separate rooms at [illegible] preserving them, thus avoiding the odor of one article being [illegible].

The [illegible] is heated throughout and is the best machinery possible to obtain, consisting of two Hamilton Corliss engines of 90 horsepower and [illegible] capable of making [illegible] tons daily [illegible] one for cooling rooms, the other for the manufacture of ice, of which twenty-five tons [illegible] the two engines and compressors are arranged so that one can do the work of both or either.

[illegible] has been a great development in deep sea fishing. A local company is keeping a steam [illegible] constantly in service and has been very successful in making large catches of valuable food fish. The use of the cold storage facilities enables the fishermen to distribute their catch [illegible] consequently no glut in the market at one time and scarcity at another.

PACIFIC COAST ELEVATOR COMPANY.

This company has erected a very large terminal elevator at Albina.

The big building, crowned by a three story cupola, is a prominent feature of that portion of the city.

The owners [illegible] railroad track through it and [illegible] 850 feet long, quite a number of cars can be run in at once. The unloading will be done by shovels or scrapers operated by steam power, which will haul the grain out of the cars into tanks from which it is [illegible] weighed, or allowed to pass [illegible] to the scale floor. It [illegible] one of the numerous bins. There are sixteen of these [illegible] each of which is capable of weighing a carload of wheat.

The [illegible] to which the cars of wheat are to be run is [illegible] feet high, and above this the building rises fifty-eight feet. The building [illegible] contains two rows of cribs or bins, each containing twenty-six bins, making 130 [illegible] 1,500,000 [illegible].

[illegible]

WILLAMETTE FALLS [illegible] TRANSMISSION.

[illegible] electric lights, the power to be generated at the falls of the Willamette at Oregon City [illegible] to be brought [illegible] by wire [illegible].

[illegible] a 1200 hundred horse power station, situated on the east side of the river at Oregon City [illegible]. The company intends to erect in the near future [illegible] on the west side of [illegible] amounting to about 50,000 horse power.

[illegible] between Oregon City and Portland. It expects to increase these [illegible] to supply power to all branches of manufacturing enterprises [illegible] and other means of transportation.

In this connection [illegible] on the west side of the river [illegible] now in course of construction a paper mill [illegible] mill [illegible] excelsior mill [illegible].

If present developments of manufacturing enterprises and movement of population continue, the [illegible] certainty that a strip of five [illegible] entire distance between Portland and Oregon City on both sides of the river will be [illegible] built up.

EXHIBITION OF THE NORTH PACIFIC INDUSTRIAL ASSOCIATION.

The first annual exhibition of this association will be [illegible] of September 1889, and continue for four weeks.

The magnificent building, 400 feet front by 200 feet deep, will be fully occupied with the most interesting objects from all parts of the United States.

It is expected that numerous strangers will be attracted to Portland by this exhibition, and that it will prove of immense benefit to our city and a credit to all those connected with it.

THE COLUMBIA WATERWAY ASSOCIATION.

The fourth annual session of the above named association met on the 9th of October 1888 in our rooms in this city. A large number of delegates were present from all parts of Oregon and Washington territory. A very interesting session was had. Numerous reports were made and much information of general interest to the country was made public. The discussions which ensued showed a very intelligent appreciation of the needs of the Columbia river, in order to improve the channel and render it more and more available for our rapidly increasing commerce.

A memorial to congress was adopted urging the prompt appropriation of the sums recommended by the local government engineers for the completion of the great work at the mouth of the Columbia river and at the Cascades locks and for the improvement of the river and its tributaries generally.

A memorial to the Oregon legislature asking that body to provide temporary means of transportation was also adopted. After the transaction of other business the convention adjourned.

The next meeting of the association will be held in our rooms on Thursday, October 10, 1889, at 10 o'clock A. M. The good results which have been achieved during the past year have inspired all the members of the convention with renewed hope for success in the future and it is earnestly hoped that a large and influential delegation from all parts of the Northwest will be present this year.

The meeting will be held at a time when the exposition in this city will be in progress and here will be much to interest visitors aside from the work of the convention. It is needless to say that this Board of Trade will do all in its power to make the affair a success and to render attendance upon the convention both pleasant and profitable to the delegates.

In closing this report I wish to say that business engagements will prevent my again being a candidate for the position of secretary. I return my sincere thanks to the officers and members of the board for unvarying courtesy during the eight years that I have held the office. I wish also to express my high appreciation of the services of Mr Benjamin I. Cohen, who has been assistant secretary and statistician during the period above named. By far the greater part of the detail work has been devolved upon him, and to his industry, intelligence and thorough knowledge of the workings of the board is due in large measure whatever of success has attended the administration of the office. Very respectfully yours,

F. K. ARNOLD, Secretary.

Portland, Or., Sept. 23, 1889.

PLACED ON FILE.

On motion the report was ordered placed on file and the secretary and assistant secretary were instructed to receive bids for printing 2000 copies of the address and reports.

Messrs. Kapus, Quackenbush and Taylor were appointed auditing committee by the chairman.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The election of officers being declared in order, Mr. McFall moved that the secretary be instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the board for Mr D. P. McLe[illegible] for president.

The motion carried unanimously and the secretary cast the vote and Mr Macleay was declared [illegible] and amid [illegible] and continued applause.

[illegible] The crop of 1888 was estimated in [illegible] at about 120, as against 100 for the year [illegible] there was available for export [illegible] of which probably more than 100 is [illegible] available for export, and without the [illegible] and there is no doubt there is a [illegible] will at once be seen that Russia has [illegible] large supplies to draw upon for her exports [illegible] the coming campaign. The Danube [illegible] a large crop of very good wheat, [illegible] selling and shipping freely. The countries [illegible] the crop is bad, such as Hungary and Austria [illegible] count for very much in the supply of [illegible] consuming countries of Europe, and, [illegible] the statement made at the Vienna congress [illegible] be considered as of little worth." ## SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The new O. R. & N. Co.'s bar tug arrived at Astoria from Portland last Sunday.

The steamer Jeanie arrived at Astoria from Copper river, Alaska, last Saturday night, and sailed for San Francisco yesterday.

J. B. Montgomery's new steamer Typhoon, being built south of the Portland & Willamette Valley railroad depot, is nearing completion. The wood work will be completed in two weeks. The machinery was ordered in the East some time ago, and will soon be put in position in the new boat.

The new steamer Ione, in the yard near Pennoyer's sawmill, is rapidly approaching completion. She is about ready for her machinery.

Instead of repairing the steamer Wonder, a new steamer will be built. The old steamer Wonder was taken to the Willamette shipyard, on the East side.

The British steamer Danube arrived here from British Columbia ports last Friday night, and is now lying at the foot of B street.

The steamer General Miles is lying at the foot of B street.

The State of California, which sails hence to-morrow night, will, on arrival at San Francisco Friday morning, unload and tie up, to be thoroughly overhauled. She has been running steadily now for about twenty-one months, and has never been in the dry dock in all that time. During her tie-up, the steamer City of Mexico will make her run. This steamer is kept by the company to do such extra work as this. She is a very clean, substantial vessel, and will reach here on the 3d of next month. On her trip up Captain Ackley discovered, about fifteen miles out to sea, off Crescent City, a can bell buoy, No. 1½, such as is used at the mouth of the Columbia river. It had drifted a long way.

What the Dickens Is the Matter?

What makes me so drowsy, yawn and stretch so, feel cold chills running down my back? Why does my head, usually clear, feel so heavy and dull? These are inquiries not unlikely to suggest themselves to the individual who is not yet aware that he has an incipient attack of malaria. Nip the disease in the bud with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a sovereign remedy also for kidney complaint, debility, indigestion, rheumatism and neuralgia.

Western Boomer—Of course you have! Everybody has heard of the founder of Hustlerville, Dakota.

St. Peter—You can come in, Mr. Boomer, but you mustn't write any pamphlets about this place. You're liable to make statements that the attractions won't warrant.

Soon cause the blood to become contaminated and require prompt treatment. The most marked symptoms are loss of appetite, headache, pains in the back or side, nausea, and relaxation of the bowels. Ayer's Pills assist nature to expel the superabundant bile and thus restore the purity of the blood. Being purely vegetable and sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take, mild in operation, and without ill effects.

"After many years' experience with Ayer's Pills as a remedy for the large number of ailments caused by derangements of the liver, peculiar to malarial localities, simple justice prompts me to express to you my high appreciation of the merits of this medicine for the class of disorders I have named."—S. L. Loughridge, Bryan, Texas.

"I had tried almost everything for chronic liver complaint, but received no relief until I used Ayer's Pills. I find them invaluable."—W. E. Watson, 77 East Illinois st., Chicago, Ill.

The lungs, throat or bronchial tubes have been attacked by a cold; nature sounds an alarm-bell telling where the disease lies. Wisdom suggests "TRY Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry;" it has cured thousands of persons. As long as you cough there is danger, for the cough is a Danger Signal. Use "Wistar" and be cured. # THE COMING EXPOSITION.

The Scene of Activity in and About the Great Building.

The Different Departments Being Rapidly Filled With Exhibits—"Newspaper Day"—The Albatross and Her Curiosities.

A comparison of the amount of work now completed in the great Exposition building with that done up to a week ago demonstrates beyond a per adventure the fact that tremendous efforts were made last week to have every exhibit in readiness for the opening this coming Thursday evening.

A SCENE OF ACTIVITY

The music of the saw and the hammer has been almost entirely lost in the commotion created by the arrival and placing of the great variety of machinery in machinery hall, the materials that go into the making up of the exhibits in the general exposition hall the buzz of conversation and laughter of the many ladies who swarm around in the ladies' department looking for a suitable place to display their fancy needle work, etc. the rattle of the trucks as they arrive and depart and a thousand and one other noises that characterize the preparations necessary to the holding of a great exposition such as the one about to throw open its doors to the entire North west

RIVALRY IN MACHINERY HALL.

The large machinery exhibitors are about ready to fence in their spaces, while some of the smaller houses are already painting their railings and otherwise adorning their exhibits, these being the finishing touches to what all must recognize when they view them as being outlays of considerable expense time and trouble. The spaces for buggies, etc. in the gallery of machinery hall are all handsomely trimmed with cloth and tastefully arranged with buntings of various colors One of Portland's largest houses began its decorations quite early having brought from the East a gentleman who has managed buggy exhibits in Chicago and other expositions. Stimulated by this splendid lead three of the other houses having adjoining spaces clubbed together to eclipse the first arrival on the field and now it would be difficult to say which one will get the medal for the finest display in this important department. Visitors to the exposition will certainly be surprised to find so much taste and beauty as these exhibitors have contrived to evince and develop The goods for the other exhibits in the gallery of this hall are nearly all in These will comprise shoe making machinery, fence, mattress whip, wood turning and other machinery

THE OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

The amount and variety of fancy work offered for the ladies' department is calculated to satisfy every taste. The floor of a good sized room is already covered and the committee is wondering where they will display all the exhibits received up to noon yesterday, when the receipt of goods closed.

The art gallery committee are already hanging their displays and a great portion of the express wagons arriving at the building contain offerings for this department. There will be a number of elegant paintings in the art gallery this year, besides statuary purchased especially by the association

The furniture department will show up in magnificent style this year and, indeed, all the exhibits in the gallery have a substantial and refined appearance, sufficient to justify the preparations so early inaugurated by the management. But the main floor of the general exposition hall, or east wing will express in better terms the taste of exhibitors Here a wonderful variety will be displayed, and the preparations are now at such a stage that one can get a good idea of how it will all look when opened to the public gaze next Thursday evening

In the floral department the greatest surprise, however, awaits the visitors to the exposition Here the preparations are being carried on on a magnificent scale, and the arrangement of the different beds allotted to the florists of Portland will be in such taste and variety, and yet so beautiful when finished that the committee on awards will have difficulty in deciding to whom the different prizes belong

It is the common remark that this exposition is already in as good shape as many others have been at the opening though during the four days preceding the opening day the building will be open until 11 o clock at night to give exhibitors opportunity to fully complete their exhibits.

MISCELLANEOUS FEATURES.

The programme or Opening Day' is already completed. Several orations, short but to the point, will be interspersed with the music of the band and the singing by Liberati's quartette.

Liberati is already en route After a short engagement at the Minneapolis exposition where a number of bands were furnishing music for a "Congress of Nations' day, he headed Sunday night for the Pacific. Part of the time he will have a special train, but his arrival in Portland will be in ample time to afford him a look at our exposition building and determine upon a suitable programme for the opening ceremonies Liberati is undoubtedly bringing to the coast the finest exposition band in America.

The committee appointed to entertain the editors, who are to visit the exposition on "newspaper day' Saturday, the 28th, are hard at work getting up a suitable programme Every mail brings letters from editors who have accepted the invitation to enjoy the hospitalities of the exposition on that day and have what they may well call "a jolly good time

Captain Tanner, of the United States steamer Albatross has been in the city several days and has succeeded in finding suitable wharfage for his floating aquarium Visitors to Portland will find in her, when she arrives, deep sea curiosities and apparatus for taking soundings that few have an opportunity to see She is now at Astoria receiving a thorough cleansing and a coat of paint, after which she will steam up the river and lie at some suitable dock, where all who wish may pay her a visit.

THEY SAW MOUNT HOOD.

The Visiting Members of the National Conference of Charities and Correction Enjoy Oregon Scenery

As per previous announcement, the members of the national conference of charities and correction were treated to an excursion up the Columbia river as far as the Cascades and return The steamer Bonita left Ash street dock at 6 A. M and arrived back at the same hour in the evening.

Rev F. H Wines of Illinois, in speaking of the trip in conversation with an OREGONIAN reporter at the Esmond last evening, said 'The scenery of the Columbia river is simply grand On the trip up the river in the morning we were treated to a beautiful cloud scene and by the time we reached the Cascades almost a clear sky On our return trip, shortly after we passed Vancouver we caught a sight of snow clad Mount Hood standing boldly forth on the eastern horizon This was at sunset, and the scene was one never to be forgotten We had a very enjoyable time, and are deeply grateful to the people of this charming city for the hospitality extended to us.'

At a meeting held in the ladies cabin of the steamer on the return trip, presided over by Mr Elder, of Indianapolis and Mr Storrs of Michigan, secretary, the following resolution, offered by Mr Wines was adopted by acclamation, to the accompaniment of loud clapping of hands, in which the ladies of the party made themselves pleasantly conspicuous.

Resolved, That the members of the national conference of charities and correction who went to the Cascades of the Columbia river on the Bonita, before parting, desire to express their acknowledgment to the citizens of Portland for this crowning courtesy the culmination of many kind and hospitable attentions, This has been the most delightful day of a fortnight of pleasure and rendered doubly agreeable by the presence of Messrs. Thomas N. Strong and W G Steel, whose intelligent and interesting account of the beauties and glories of the river was enjoyed by us all We wish to include in this vote of thanks Captain Pittsburg and the other officers of the Bonita and to commend them and their boat to tourists who may come after us Especially we must thank Mr Steel for doing what we supposed to be beyond his power, in giving us a sunset view of the glorious Mount Hood

Most of the delegates left for a pleasure trip to the Sound at 10 o clock last night, to be followed by the rest to night

'I am stumped for once in my life, said the mayor, with a grim smile, yesterday afternoon 'I have always endeavored to respond whenever duty has called, but I positively do not know what to say to the assembled undertakers. I'll make an effort at any rate

BEFORE FOOTLIGHTS

CORDRAY'S MUSEE-THEATER —'Peck's Bad Boy by the Laurence & Conners's Musical Comedy company drew a crowded house to the Musee Theater last evening A special feature of the performance was the appearance of Mr J J Williams in the role of the Bad Boy He has been seen here on two occasions before in the same character and was greeted with abundant applause on his first appearance last night

The string of absurdities and incongruous incidents known as 'Peck's Bad Boy" is too familiar to require any special description. It is simply a mixture to evoke laughter, and the various improbable pranks of the juvenile Peck kept the house in roars of laughter the entire evening

Frank Culbert makes a most amusing Max Smith's Harry Corners a good Duffy, Johnny Williams an effective Major Peck and Billy Donnelly a fair Jimmy Duffy Miss Annie Whitney as Minnie Clay Minnie Busquelle as Mrs. Peck and Fanny Yantis as Lizzie were also acceptable

The musical and comedy specialties introduced in the third act were all well given and heartily applauded.

"Peck's Bad Boy" will run the entire week.

'THE CITY DIRECTORY '— 'The City Directory,' with Charlie Reed and a most excellent company will have its first production at the New Park theater to-night

The house has been newly painted and decorated and presents a most attractive appearance The following is the

TRIALS OF A MANAGER.

J P Howe Opens Himself up to an "Oregonian" Reporter—Subject, "Woes of the Profession'

An OREGONIAN reporter, after considerable difficulty climbing over barrels buckets of paint ladders etc reached the interior of the New Park theater yesterday where he saw a large number of workmen busy painting and decorating the theater He also found Manager J P Howe busy attending the different details necessary for the advent of The City Directory Company which opens the fall season at his house to night Mr Howe has also this company and the "Little Lord Fauntleroy Company under his direction on the Sound

He said, during a general talk on theatrical business, that many people imagine managing a theater was play continuing he said I find it hard work I not only have my own business to attend to but seemingly everybody else's Now I have several hundred performers under the direction of Mr Bell and myself on the circuit Of the many companies we have booked for the season we have several for three and four weeks, playing one and two night stands

'It is any thing but play managing a theater or a number of theaters as I do Traveling combinations are a very different thing from a stock theater The latter you engage your company and control the whole show while with the combination business you see I am in partnership every week with a new manager and new people, and all think they have the greatest on the road

I am often asked why I change my prices Now, for instance I have this week John Russell's City Directory company It includes a number of first class people, and Mr Russell can get dates in any first class comedy theatre in America. For this attraction my regular prices will be charged which are the same as the New California and Bush street theatres Following this company I have the 'Little Lord Fauntleroy company This is a Baldwin theatre attraction and the prices will be the same as at that theatre, and they rightly expect the same here The first class combinations that visit this coast are usually attractions that carry a large number of people, and as it costs a manager $15 more for each person to come or go via Portland than it does direct over the Union Pacific and Central Pacific and return via Los Angeles over the Southern Pacific It requires a great deal of work to get these companies especially as you know Portland has not had the best reputation as a 'show town The attractions that the people of Portland want are usually those that will do an average business in any large city say of from $6000 to $7000 per week, while the same company will reach the highest figure if they play here to $4000 So you see what appears to a Portlander as an immense business, is very ordinary for the attraction

One great thing in my favor is that scarcely any company ever acknowledges bad business. One of my greatest difficulties here is to fill my time Why do you know if I succeeded in getting all of Mr Hayman's attractions I could fill not over one-third of my time, as he plays all companies from two to four weeks each, and this is only a one week stand There is one fact well known, too, among managers, and that is that it is very hard to tell just what will suit the Portland public. Now, I have had attractions I booked merely to keep my theatre open I expected light, or at best very ordinary business and they did a big business for instance Webster & Brady Co, Alvin Joslyn and Uncle Tom's Cabin companies, while others that I expected great things of did a very poor business. I might mention Denman Thompson and Roland Reed These gentlemen can and have played a whole season in New York to an average of $1000 per night while their business here was less than $2000 for the week

After giving the reporter the above information Mr Howe excused himself and went to look after the men mounting the new scenery which he has just received from the Sosman & Landis studio Chicago which will be in readiness for to night's opening

THE FAIR AT CENTRAL POINT.

Secretary Miller Writes That It Promises To Be a Great Success

The Southern Oregon state board of agriculture is now holding its fair at Central Point Jackson county Secretary Miller writing from Jacksonville, says of the prospects

Our district fair promises to be a great success—not only in point of numbers but in the excellence of the horticultural and stock exhibits The fame of Southern Oregon has already gone abroad as to its wonderful fruit yield, but it is not generally known that it yields the palm to none in blooded stock. But a few years since the horses of Southern Oregon had a coast reputation (recent sales notably that of McDonough & Swan—two horses to Mayor Van DeLashmutt for $10,000—prove that the old Vermont stock is still in the ring As for blooded cattle, almost every kind is owned

Our district fair will resemble former state fairs in that many who have never seen a fair will come and camp during the week Nothing since the gold excitement of the fifties and the building of the railroad has secured to day such crowds In fact the largest crowd ever assembled in Southern Oregon will be at the fair near Central Point between Monday the 23d and Friday the 27th The grounds are located in the heart of Rogue river valley, having plenty of shade and good water The mile track on granite soil is specially adapted for winter training and is destined to become the common meeting ground of the California and Oregon turfmen

Washington territory towns have been noted for their rapid growth but the best of them have not and are not growing more rapidly than the coming city of LaGrande, Oregon Business has doubled as well as population within the past year There are people who will read of this growth and look upon it as 'boom work,' but in the near future they will awaken to the fact that they missed it in not buying property in LaGrande It has more genuine resources in agriculture timber stock and mineral than ninety eight per cent of the towns and cities in the North west These resources are fast developing, and to-day the town lots in LaGrande are among the safest and surest investments now on the market Remember that if any lots remain unsold on the night of October 5, the day of the sale of lots in Wisdom's addition the prices of the unsold lots will be increased from ten to twenty per cent If all who are investigating this property should buy, the 150 lots will be sold in one hour No deeds issued until day of sale but drafts sent in advance will secure first choice on morning of sale Call at drug store corner First and Stark to see plats, or write to T K Romig LaGrande Send your draft to the La Grande National Bank if you prefer and deeds or bonds will be delivered to them in the name of the buyer

POLITICS IN WASHINGTON.

Delegate Allen Confident of the Success of the Republican Ticket.

The Democrats, He Says, Have Their Eyes on the Senatorships and Are Throwing off on Their State Ticket

Hon John B Allen, of Walla Walla, Washington's delegate to congress was at the St. Charles yesterday He is stumping the territory for the republican state ticket. Last night he addressed a meeting at Vancouver to-night he will speak at Chehalis and the remainder of the week at Seattle, Tacoma and Port Townsend closing the campaign at Walla Walla.

"Do you think the republican ticket will be successful next month?" asked an OREGONIAN reporter

'Most assuredly he answered 'I have no doubt but the entire ticket will be elected by a very large majority The democrats are making a still hunt and are trying to trade their state ticket for the legislative ticket They have their eyes on the two United States senatorships and would sacrifice anything to elect the legislature However the republicans are on the alert and realizing the paramount importance of carrying the legislature have cast aside personal factional and sectional feelings and have united as one man to insure the success of their nominees The scheme is too clearly that there is too much at stake for them to be careless. The people seem to be well pleased with our ticket and I have found that the mention of the names of the candidates for governor and congressman have elicited enthusiasm in all assemblages which I have addressed

What is the issue of the campaign?

The tariff Protection perched victory upon the republican standard last year and it is a good issue this year Every industry and employment in the territory is directly affected by the tariff question

Will the constitution be accepted by the people

I think it will be ratified by a large majority In some places the democrats are criticising it to prejudice the voters for the purpose of diverting them from the support of the legislative ticket but as they did not have the moral courage to condemn it in their platform there is no weight attached to their statements. They are making a showing only in localities where they think opposition is popular In my travels through the territory I have found that the people are generally satisfied with the constitution Some think that it provides for an extravagant state government but the great saving in the prompt administration of the law will amply compensate for this The people are anxious for state government which they are confident will instill new life into the common wealth offer new incentives to enterprise and capital and induce desirable men to make their home in Washington

Delegate Allen did not care to talk of the capital question He was of the opinion that it will require more than one ballot to decide what town shall have it

DEDICATION OF MOORESVILLE

A Very Pleasant Trip Down to That Embryotic Town—Night Ride—Music and Dancing—Incidents.

The town of Mooresville was formally inaugurated or dedicated or opened for business, or something of that sort by a grand ball in the hall over the store

A very jolly party of some twenty five ladies and gentlemen left the city at 10 Saturday afternoon on the steamer G W Shaver to take part in the festivities and to see the new town, which is 'centrally located with regard to the country around it, and if it has not so many railroads as Fresno it can double discount that place in the matter of magnificent forest trees and sawmills and population

The party had a very pleasant trip to a point a mile or two below Hunters, where they disembarked with the horses and carriages which were to carry them back into the woods three miles to Mooresville. A piano and five members of Parson's band, to furnish music for the dance went along The piano was loaded on one wagon and the people in three others, and just as Egyptian darkness settled down over the forest the procession started It would take too much space to give an account of the journey suffice it to say that the carriage containing the ladies, under the skillful guidance of Mr H B Borthwick, reached the town in safety, on time, while another got off the road and on to a stump one of the horses was 'cast, and the load unloaded, a musician fell upon his fiddle and part of the band took the lead the piano passed the passenger wagon somewhere wandering darkly and some by the aid of lanterns and hiding at last all reached the town in safety and received a hearty welcome

The town is named in honor of Mr D J Moore of this city who first purchased a large tract of land here for the wood and then seeing that there was a lot of fine timber in the vicinity joined with Mr H B Borthwick C W Knowles and others in organizing the Columbia River Lumber and Fuel Company which has put up a fine saw mill there and employs about 100 men They have erected a number of buildings among them a fine mess house and a large store over which a fine roomy hall handsomely papered and which was daintily decorated with flags and festooned with red, white and blue in honor of the occasion There were about forty ladies present and no lack of partners for them and to spare The piano was unloaded and carried into the hall Then it was placed on the platform and the musicians after carefully examining their instruments to see if they were all there struck up a lively tune at 9 o'clock, and the dancing began As to the success of the ball it is only necessary to say that the dancing was kept up with vigor except for time to eat an excellent supper at midnight till 6 o'clock in the morning. Everybody was happy and had a good time. At 5 30 day dawned at 6 it was light and the horses were ordered around and the very efficient floor manager announced that the [illegible] dancers would wind up the affair and began a [illegible] five couples more wanted It was evident that some of the dancers had grown weary as they did not respond to this call as readily as early in the evening. At 6 30 the procession started on the return trip, giving rounds of hearty cheers for Mooresville and the ladies of the town and Moore and Borthwick and everybody else.

There were some sleepy ones on the boat coming up the river but all expressed a willingness to join in just such another trip and dance all night to boot daylight and go home with the girls in the morning.

PEARLINE
IS THE FRIEND OF THE WORKINGMAN

With Pearline, he can make his face and hands as white as a woman's.

His wife can make his finest linen or coarsest overalls as clean and sweet as the linen of a gentleman of leisure.

She can keep the home as clean and sweet as any palace; and more besides, it saves her one-half the time required by ordinary soap; and by doing away with most of the rubbing it does away with the worst of the wear and tear on the woman, the clothes—a fact Pearline makes a paying saving all around, it's economical no matter how you look at it.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—they are not and besides are dangerous.
